$464,000 extra state aid bails out school budget

by Arlene Surprenant

Good news was the order of the night as voters at Monday's special town meeting passed over four articles and approved the remaining nine articles in a record-breaking two hour session. Of the nine articles taken up, four were approved without discussion.

News that the Commonwealth would be returning $464,000 to the town took Wilmington voters by surprise as they prepared to cut $538,379 from the budget. The welcome announcement was made by selectmen, who were notified earlier that Governor Michael Dukakis was releasing $20 million in distress funds to local cities and towns. As a precaution, voters proceeded to make the necessary reductions, contingent upon receipt of the emergency funds. They cut $271,516 from the town side of the ledger, $142,000 from the school department, and $24,318 from Shawsheen Tech.

In their deliberations on the proposed cuts, town meeting-goers went along with the selectmen's recommendation that no cuts be made in the school budget if the state funds are forthcoming. The remaining $75,000 to be cut, they said, would be absorbed by the town. In addition, any overrage from a gift of $110,000 from the redevelopment authority may go to the schools as well, as requested by school committeeman Aldo Caira.

Article six, to appropriate funds to repair the high school heating system and replace two boilers, was the main focus of the evening as some residents questioned the work to be done and criticized town officials for allegedly mishandling the boiler repairs.

Because of a good bidding climate, the $1,100,000 estimated cost of the boiler project was reduced to $852,705. Of that figure, $99,920 is being set aside as a contingency fee in case of a "catastrophe" and could be returned to the town.

Diane Allan, chairman of the Permanent Building Committee overseeing the work, said her board agreed to go with the low bid of $666,135 for construction costs and boiler replacement. The remaining monies will cover architectural and engineering fees, the price of plans and specifications, an asbestos contingency fee, the salary for a clerk of the works, and instruction in boiler maintenance.

While many recognized the town has no choice but to appropriate funds to do the job, at least one resident was openly critical of officials.

John Sanborn reproached the PBC saying "the only problem with these people is they're on a gravy train. They'll never finish this project (high school renovation)."

Sanborn also accused selectmen of lying to the town regarding a lawsuit against the original consultant. Selectmen had agreed to look into a possible suit against the consultant who told the PBC the boilers didn't have to be replaced. Town Counsel Alan Altman stated Monday no litigation was pending. Selectmen Chairman Bob Cain explained that his board was still pursuing that option.

A forceful Allan assured voters PBC members "learned from our mistakes." She said it was the opinion of two outside consultants that the repair work and replacement of the boilers was a necessity. She added a feasibility study contracted by her board also came to the same conclusion.

"For the sake of a few pennies now, let's not be pound foolish," said Rocco DePasquale, who argued that delay could only increase the cost of the project.

When voters got bogged down in the age of the three boilers, with the ages of the oldest and newest having been established, Moderator Michael Caira tried to get the discussion back on track when he quipped "Is anyone concerned with the middle-aged boiler?"

In the end, residents approved the article in a 295 to 28 vote. A two-thirds majority was needed to allow the issue to be brought to the town in a special election November 4. If a majority of residents vote yes in November, work on the heating system will begin immediately with the three boilers being removed in May.

Articles on a negotiated agreement with Reading Light and renovations to the high school auditorium were passed over and are expected to be brought up at the annual town meeting.

Suspect arrested Sgt. William Gable escorts John Harrington of Swampscott after he was captured by Deputy Chief Bernard Nally (seen behind them, at right).

Two arrested on burglary charges

Wilmington police arrested two men Monday afternoon, charging them with breaking into a home on Aldrich Road.

A neighbor called police to report the break, giving a good description of the suspects' vehicle. Sgt. Jay Palmer forced the car to stop on Church Street opposite the high school tennis court driveway.

As he took the driver out of the car the passsenger bolted down the driveway, running through the back of the ball field. Deputy Chief Bernard Nally chased the suspect down into the woods behind the cemetery as the suspect ran toward Federal Street.

The driver of the car was identified as James Polyhronakos, 12 Fiske Ave., Lynn, age 26. The other suspect is John Harrington, 12 Bates St., Swampscott, age 22. Assisting at the scene was Sgt. Shepard, Sgt. Gable, Insp. Jepson and Officers Waterhouse and Cuoco. All the property taken from the break was recovered.

Investigators found other property in the suspects' vehicle which was identified as coming from another break-in of a home in North Reading.

Harrington and Polyhronakas were charged with breaking and entry in a dwelling in the day time with intent to commit a felony, possession of burglarious tools, larceny in a building, receiving stolen property (the North Reading case). The driver was additionally charged with operating after suspension of his license. Both suspects were held overnight on $10,000 bail.

North Reading police will bring additional charges.

Police said that both men have extensive criminal records, one having served state prison time.

Buyers sought for affordable units

by Arlene Surprenant

First-time homebuyers are currently being sought by Jay Tighe and Shawsheen River Associates for the 220 units in the Shawsheen River Estates affordable housing project.

In an update last Thursday at the Affordable Housing Task Force meeting, Tighe said he has compiled close to 400 names and "people are calling every day" seeking information on how to apply for the mixed units. He said letters will go out shortly informing interested parties where they can pick up an application.

The affordable units will be distributed on a lottery basis, with Wilmington residents getting first preference for the single family duplex, triplex, and quadraplex units. Eleven of the units have been offered to the Wilmington Housing Authority but, said Tighe, the board had neglected to apply for state funds because of the state's fiscal crisis. If the authority doesn't pick up the units, they will revert back to HOP (Homeownership Opportunity Program) units and sell for $95,000 apiece, said Tighe.

The developer told the task force the $4.6 million for N-loans for the affordable units has been transferred to a Boston bank and are secure. He said he has received the CDAG grant of one half million dollars to fund infrastructure work like the water line installation, which will be bid in December. Tighe explained work on the infrastructure will begin in May with work on and off site progressing at the same time. Tighe expects work will begin at Hopkins Street and move toward the Shawsheen River over a three to four year period.

Though Tighe and his partners received a temporary permit to install a sewer line under the tracks at Lake Street and Grove Avenue, Tighe said because of something called "enhancement value," which places a value on land once it's developed with sewer, the original $2,000 fee has increased.

In addition, said Tighe, the state now wants all 11 housing authority units built during the first phase instead of phased in over three years. Tighe said he wasn't in favor of that requirement, even though it would allow proponents to obtain state funds quicker to help reduce their debt. Task force members were also against the plan, saying it would destroy the whole idea of mixing the lower cost units with the market value homes. Tighe said he would continue discussing this new idea with the state.

Leaf recycling begins Saturday

As the trees begin to drop their leaves, the town of Wilmington is ready to open a composting area for leaf recycling.

The composting area is part of a recycling center which the town opened last weekend off Old Main Street, near the Woburn line.

Assistant Town Manager Jeff Hull said that homeowners may bring bags of leaves to the recycling center on Saturday. The recycling center will be open from 9 to 4. It will be closed on Sunday.

On Saturday, Oct. 28, the town will pick up leaves at curbside. This one-time service is being donated by Waste Management, the town's rubbish collection contractor. Leaves should be put out at curbside in a container(s) to be emptied; bags will not be take.

The opening of the recycling center was quite successful on Saturday, with residents completely filling a roll-off container with old newspapers. A container for bottles and aluminum cans also collected quite a bit of material, but was not filled.

The recycling effort is being coordinated by a volunteer committee, working in conjunction with the town Dept. of Public Works and the assistant town manager. The committee will meet on Thursday at 6:15 at the Town Hall.

Canal digs

An archaeological survey is being conducted off Butters Row in Wilmington where a replacement gas transmission line will cross the old Middlesex Canal. The construction is not expected to disturb much of the old canal, but an archaeological dig is required on such a site. The canal was built between 1793 and 1803, linking Boston and Lowell, but was abandoned some 150 years ago when railroads came into being. The men working on the dig are Jerry Macomber and Daniel Clayton of Boston University office of public archaeology. (Photo by Christine Tighe)

Regional, grassroots efforts needed to fight pollution

by Arlene Surprenant

Both a regional approach involving neighboring towns as well as a local effort at the grassroots level are needed to control pollution of the state's groundwater supplies. In addition, towns and cities can take steps to protect their water supply with land use controls such as zoning, purchasing the land around sensitive recharge areas, and adopting and enforcing aquifer protection bylaws.

In a groundwater forum sponsored by the Wilmington League of Women Voters, four experts told an attentive audience Tuesday that the best groundwater management strategy is protection. And protection, they said, can involve citizens who are willing to report violations, such as the dumping of illegal hazardous wastes, as well as neighboring communities, which are equally affected by groundwater pollution. Remediation measures to clean up contaminated water were viewed as costly and sometimes, the experts said, the damage is irreversible.

In an effort to protect Wilmington's water supply, the water department has contracted with IEP to do an aquifer protection study prior to bringing an aquifer protection bylaw before voters at April's town meeting. Maureen Whelan, a hydrogeologist with IEP, said last night the main focus of the study will be to discover which areas need the most protection and to look at the amount of "reasonable" development which could be handled in Wilmington.

Whelan said though her firm is only in "the very beginning stages" of its work, staff members are already identifying potential contaminates from landfills, junkyards, surface impoundments, and a confirmed hazardous waste site currently under investigation. Whelan explained that Wilmington is fortunate that most of the land surrounding municipal wells is already owned by the Wilmington Water Department.

Most pollution comes from smaller businesses like gas stations, ma and pa type stores, and cleaning establishments, as well as from home heating oil tanks, and not from large corporations, said Don Hickman, a toxic pollution specialist with the Audobon Society. Bylaws or ordinances may regulate future use or development in sensitive areas, but they don't give towns the legal authority to remove past uses or uses grandfathered in, he added.

Dr. Robert Arnold, a professor of cartography at Salem State, spoke on the Ipswich River and the work of the Ipswich River Watershed Association. He noted there could be pollution at the headwaters of the river which is in Wilmington. Dr. Arnold said some of the buildings off Concord Street are too close to the floodplain and there is "an awful lot of encroachment of buildings and people and land use in Wilmington."

"Groundwater pollution is not a thoretical problem. It's very real and it's at our doorstep already," maintained Martin Pillsbury. Pillsbury, who works for the Metropolitan Area Planning Council, explained how five North Shore communities took a regional approach to the problem and formed an ad-hoc water protection community. Pillsbury urged local citizens to recognize that household hazardous wastes are a potential danger in unsewered areas.

The two hour forum was led by league president Barbara Sullivan, who affirmed that her organization has "strong feelings" about protecting Wilmington's water supply. During an informative slide show on groundwater, it was pointed out that "the time for responsible action is now. What we must give up is the luxury of taking it (water) for granted."

School board hires suspension teacher

by Arlene Surprenant

The Wilmington School Committee last week filled several positions, including the controversial in-house suspension teacher position, and opted not to restore a matron and patron at the high school at this time. Committee members were careful to explain that all the positions filled were previously budgeted positions and would not impact the current shortfall.

Brian Hogan was hired at a salary of $22,260 to be the new in-house suspension instructor. Though all agreed to the need for such a position and said Hogan had "exceptional" qualifications, Shirley Callan noted that as long as her board cuts textbooks and supplies, she couldn't support any additional personnel. James Demos looked on the posiiton as an opportunity to bolster teenagers' self-esteem and help them do better academically so they don't fall under the special needs program. Any child who has five unexcused absences can be referred to the program, which aims to keep students in school.

The board also unanimously voted to hire one paraprofessional, three kindergarten and office aides, and one class advisor. These are all Classification E positions.

When Callan attempted to restore a matron and patron at the high school at a cost of $11,000 each, fellow members balked and said this would be an additional expense. Callan argued that hiring the two bathroom monitors would be a "cost effective" way to handle vandalism and smoking problems in the restrooms.

Andrea Paglia advised her committee to "tread lightly" since the two positions are not viewed as educational by Wilmington selectmen or others in town. Aldo Caira said though the positions are warranted, restoring them could destroy the board's credibility since there is no money in the budget to fund the salaries. The vote went against Callan's request, six to one.

Clarification

In a story on AIDS Awareness in last week's Town Crier it was reported that three out of every 1,000 college students tested positive for AIDS. That should have read three out of every 1,000 students tested positive for the HIV virus but do not yet show signs of AIDS.

New arrival

MUTCHLER: Mr. and Mrs. William Mutchler (Carol Cipriani) of Lawrence Street, Wilmington together with their children Matthew, Adam and Bethany have announced the arrival of their four and one-half year old daughter and sister Jenessa Yuh Jin from the Republic of South Korea on Monday evening September 11, 1989 at Kennedy International Airport, New York.

Grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. John Cipriani of Wilmington and Mrs. Jerri Mutchler of Seminole, Florida.

Great-grandmothers are Mrs. Louise Cipriani of Winthrop and Mrs. Mabel Johnson of Seminole, Fla.

Home delivery

Tuesday was moving day for a house on Woburn Street in Wilmington. Owned by John Lucci, it was moved about 200 yards north. The former site, near Lowell Street, will be developed into commercial property.

Boomers denied food permit

Eastern Billiard Supply, 780 Main St., Wilmington was denied a special permit authorizing that "Boomers" be allowed to sell capped soda and steamed hot dogs, in its place of business, located in a General Industrial Zone, by the Wilmington Board of Appeals. The hearing was held on September 13.

The board was told by Atty. Richard Weiss that Mr. Lucchesi, manager of Boomers wanted to sell capped soda and steamed hot dogs to his customers. It would be more sanitary to sell in this manner, and if spilled would prevent damage to the rugs and pool tables Since there are already vending machines in the establishment the sale of hot dogs would not be an imposition.

The board was told by Bill Hooper of the Planning Board that the zoning bylaw prohibits the sale of food in a General Industrial area, and even a Special Permit would not allow it. The vote to deny was unanimous.

Eastern Billiard Supply is located on Main Street across from the Town Park, on land that was once a part of the Town Farm.

DEDUCTING PARENT SUPPORT

As life spans increase, we see more and more grown children supporting their aged parents. In many cases several children share the cost of Pop's retirement village or nursing home.

If they share the cost, they can share the income tax exemption, too, with a "multiple support agreement." Here's how.

The parent must receive more than half of his or her support from the children arranging the agreement; other income (not including Social Security) must not exceed $2,000; no one in the group shall give more than 50 percent of the support; and the one who takes the exemption must contribute at least 10 percent. Only one member of the group can claim the parent as a dependent in any one year. Each of the children signing the agreement must sign IRS form 2120, promising not to claim the parent as an exemption; then the forms are attached to and filed with the income tax return of the child who IS taking the exemption.

You can rely on our professionals to help you make the most of any opportunity to save on taxes. Call us at...

A & M NURSERY & FLORIST

Tree Talk

by Mike DiGiorgio

GENTLEMEN PREFER REDHEADS

Men have known for quite sometime that women hardly ever fail to succumb to the romantic allure of flowers. What women may not know is that men generally feel the same way. A bouquet of flowers is just as likely to make a man's heart skip a beat as a woman's. If women are at a loss as to what to give the men in their lives, the American Floral Marketing Council has some basic information. According to a 1988 study, men prefer red blooms. Women are more likely to select pink, peach, or yellow. Deep purple is equally popular with both sexes. When in doubt, therefore, select the hot colors for floral gift giving.

Flowers may be the perfect gift for that special man you're thinking of whether the occasion is a birthday, holiday, or everyday event. The staff at A & M NURSERY AND FLORIST work with you to design an arrangement that suits your needs, the style of person who will receive it. We're located at 911 East Street, Tewksbury, telephone: 851-4472. Store hours: Mon-Sat 8 to 5:30, Sun 8 to 4.

HINT: The most popular flowers (in order) are: rose, carnation, alstroemeria, sweetheart rose, and pompon.

Wilmington suspends special needs criteria

by Arlene Surprenant

Wilmington has temporarily suspended its special needs criteria which helps identify students with intrinsic or internal handicapping conditions. The criteria was authored by Special Education Director Cleo Fredette in 1981 and, since that time, helped the special education department reach about 800 youngsters in town.

Wilmington's criteria covers students with learning, developmental, and emotional disorders; behavior or personality disorders; chronic illness or vision, hearing, and head injury problems; or students unable to make effective progress in regular education.

Fredette told the Wilmington School Committee Wednesday an attorney with the state department of education issued an opinion stating that Wilmington's criteria is not in conformance with that of the state. In addition, he said, some members of the Regional Advisory Council, made up of a broad spectrum of parents, public figures, and advocacy groups, complained to the state that Wilmington's criteria was too limiting and his department was not providing good service to special needs youngsters.

In fact, Fredette explained, the state as yet has not adopted its own criteria, though it generally goes along with the idea that a student with any temporary or permanent disability which hinders progress in school could fall under his department. Fredette said until the state adopts its own criteria, he is unsure what guidelines to use.

Recently, a special task force, under Dr. Marybeth Fafard, Associate Commissioner of Special Education, has been looking into the whole issue and developing a criteria which could be used throughout Massachusetts. The criteria,though has not been made public, even though the task force completed its study in May.

After learning of the controversy, Fredette offered to pilot the experimental criteria in Wilmington for a few months. This will require some technical assistance workshops through the state to reportedly learn how to implement the guidelines established by the task force.

Fredette was critical of the state both at last Wednesday's meeting and in talking to the Town Crier on Thursday. He explained the reason he developed his own criteria was because the state had "played ostrich" and refused to take a "leadership role" in setting up some clearcut, consistent guidelines.

"We should all be making consistent decisions," said a vocal Fredette, adding that the department of education was aware of Wilmington's criteria and he "never hid anything we were doing."

In 1981, close to 17 percent of Wilmington students were classified as special needs, which led to concern and a townwide criteria that has since been adopted or used by 20 other school systems in the state. Today, that number has been reduced to 14.7 percent. However, under the state's broader definition, there's a good possibility those figures will again increase.

One of Fredette's firm beliefs is that there should be more alternative education and remedial programs in regular education to help failing students so they don't eventually fall under special needs. Currently, any elementary student in danger of not being promoted and any secondary student who fails two or more non-elective subjects is classified special needs.

"We are only giving more individualized attention. But regular education can do that too," Fredette claimed. He went on to say "it makes alot of sense to bolster the regular education program" in such areas as curriculum development, grading standards, and cooperation between regular and special education.

Fredette also maintained that regular education missed an opportunity by not putting "more teeth" into Chapter 188 (the regular education law) so regular students would have advantages similar to those mandated for special needs pupils. He predicted Wilmington will continue to see a drain on regular education because of increasing mandated costs of special education.

Fredette said though controversy continues to swirl, he is not unhappy with his or Wilmington's role in it.

"I really believe we have acted as a catalyst for change and forced the department of education to train a community for the first time," he said, adding, "I think we're taking a leadership role in the state."

"Really, haven't we done something?" Fredette asked.

A one-seventh report on the Wilmington School Committee

The open house at the fire station on Church Street was a wonderful success, weather notwithstanding. The children enjoyed balloons, firemen's hats, hot dogs and a special clown tour. Cinderella was a no show, but Sir Ziggy took it well. The puppet show put on by our own high school students was excellent. We also had a good representation of students as short order cooks and "go fors."

The demonstration of a rescue was totally effective and realistic. As a matter of fact, the volunteer victim thoroughly convinced his son to the point of tears. The swift and coordinated method to remove a victim and transport him/her to a helicopter is something to observe. It never ceases to amaze me as well as make me count my blessings every time I see it. This is something we tend to take for granted and shouldn't.

I had an opportunity to participate in the residential sprinkler demonstration. I volunteered with two other people to sit in a trailer as they set a fire in it. My first thought was that my children were worried about me, then I seriously wondered "What's a nice girl like me doing in a place like this?" It took 10 seconds to set the curtain ablaze, 10 seconds to assess may life, make a good act of contrition, and set off the alarm; but, after 30 seconds (total) the fire was out. This is a testimony for residential sprinklers.

By the way, my children wanted to know why I would do such a thing. I told them, at my age, it was easier than stop, drop and roll.

Finally, many thanks go to the firefighters who volunteer their time, effort, and hearts to help the children be more aware of fire safety. The school programs and open house are a real credit to Wilmington. We are blessed with caring.

Thank you to those who supported Article 1 and 6 at the town meeting. The selectmen's gesture is appreciated and hopefully, the entire town will benefit. The $474,000 could not have been better timed. Some how the 11th hour has become a routine event on the town floor. Mr. Miceli, thank you for leaving your session early to explain the situation via the "Ways and Means' position. Maybe now, FY90 has a few ways to achieve its means.

Compliments are sent to the Fincom for the initiative to get the boards in a communication mode. Let's hope this becomes a trend. Unfortunately, this current year and its possible surprise."bail out' does not change the future anticipated constraints awaiting local governments during the next few years. Equal acknowledgement goes to the selectmen and my fellow board members for acting in kind with the Fincom's suggestion. The spirit of the common good is evident and refreshing as well as encouraging (in spite of the history of previous speculations). The yellow light (proceed with caution) is much better than gropping in the dark.

Again, the WRA made a good faith effort to support the town. They had an opportunity to amend the gift to our town and didn't take it. Article 8 passed and the town is $110,000+ to the better.

A good presentation was made by the Permanent Buildings Committee. They were obviously well prepared for some of the heat from the floor. If only we could bottle and store that! This is not to belittle anyone's point of view, because that's what America is all about.

HOLDING THE SALE TOGETHER

Many of our listings come from people who tried to sell their own homes, and who thought they had been successful. All too often, however, "By Owners" learn the hard way that selling their home is easy, but keeping it sold and getting their buyers to the settlement table is another story.

What are some of the pitfalls? First of all, face to face negotiations with a buyer can be hazardous, even if they really want the house. Then there's the paperwork. Stationery store contract forms rarely cover all of the requirements in your city or state regarding taxes or various disclosure laws, and this may create major loopholes allowing buyers with cold feet to back out at the last minute. Once you have come to terms, how can you be sure your buyers will find competent professionals to handle their loan and complete the settlement? What if there are problems with the structural inspection or termites pop out of your woodwork? These are just some of the areas where our experience and expertise serve our clients every day in completing successful transactions!

.....Opinion.....

Frankly speaking

by Kevin John Sowyrda

State Transportation Secretary Fred Salvucci came under a heavy barrage of questioning at last week's Senate Ways and Means hearing, as legislators begin to cope with the fact that the cost of the central artery depression in Boston may leave little or no funding for roadway projects in their suburban districts.

The ways and means committee, chaired by Senator Patricia McGovern, expressed its frustration over the fact that since last spring hundreds of millions of dollars in construction projects have been put on hold, and that the massive financial commitment of the central artery depression may shortchange the growing need for bridge and roadway repair in other parts of Massachusetts.

State Senator Bob Buell, a member of Senate Ways and Means, said that he and his suburban colleagues are threatened with the prospect of the 'Big Dig' in Boston will deplete the state's transportation funds at the direct expense of other cities and towns. "All the federal aid is going right into that three mile stretch along the Boston Harbor," said Buell.

Ninety percent of the artery project is being funded by the federal government, with a 10 percent commitment to be made by the state. But even that smaller percentage represents at least $25 million annually for the life of the project.

The politics of this situation is becoming increasingly obvious. The 'Big Dig' in Boston could make it nearly impossible for a suburban legislator to take home the bacon for a local roadway or bridge project, especially in light of the continued instability of the state budget.

Add to this yet another political ingredient.

With the plight of the state infrastructure receiving increased publicity, the trade unions (whose life blood is large public works projects) and Transportation Secretary Salvucci are increasing their joint, grassroots efforts for a gasoline tax. Their strategy may be to take advantage of the anxiety on Beacon Hill that hundreds of local projects will remain on hold as transportation moneys continue to funnel into the 'Big Dig.' "Salvucci is saying he won't advertise any local projects until there's an increase in the gas tax. In effect he's holding us hostage," said Senator Buell.

But questions have already arisen on how any increase in gas tax revenue swould be allocated. Buell believes an increase will simply be passed on to the feeding frenzy of the Harbor project, making it a hard tax to sell to suburbanites when their own bridges and roadways continue to be neglected. "Why would my constituents want to pay a higher gas tax if 80 or 90 percent of that is going to the Central Artery Project," said Buell.

Wilmington officials may be alarmed at the impact of the budget crisis and the harbor project on the availability of funds for the renovation of the Center. However, State Rep. Augie Grace, a member of the House Transportation Committee, said that the poor condition of the Center bridge makes its repalcement a top priority for the state. "The Center project is equally in jeopardy with all the other projects in Massachuseetts, though I consider replacement of the Wilmington Center bridge to be the top priority for the department of public works," said Grace.

Earlier in the year an increase in the gas tax may have been described as politically unrealistic. But time will tell whether or not a new realism comes to play here. Legislators, who depend on the political benefit of bringing public works projects to their communities, may begin to re-evalaute the gas tax issue, especially if that money is earmarked for bridge and roadway repairs in their districts.

Mark Erlich, program director of the Mass. Building Trades Council, went so far as to suggest that it could take a tragedy to promote increased revenues for infrastructure repairs. "I'm afraid of a Connecticut situation; that it might take a disaster to get people to support improving the bridges and highways," said Erlich.

But a less tragic catalyst for funding of suburban projects may be realization that the only success for the central artery depression will be moving traffic-weary drivers from the sunshine to the subterranean.

So, tell us what you think!

Random thoughts on a town meeting

by Arlene Surprenant

• Along with our gratitude, we should send our esteemed governor a bill for $3,000 for having to call Monday's meeting.

• Didn't that surprise announcement about $464,000 in emergency funds take the wind out of many sails Monday night?

• Rudeness has no place at town meeting. We can agree to disagree, but next time, leave the barbs and pointed criticism at home.

• There was no lack of heat Monday, either from the boilers or disgruntled citizens. You have to wonder why there's such a lack of trust in town government on the part of some residents.

• PBC consultant Kevin Buckley deserves the Foot in Mouth Award for his goof on the age of the oldest high school boiler. Thanks to Jim Downs for setting the record straight. In case anyone cares, the oldest boiler is 39 years old.

• This may be the first time in history a rezoning article slipped by with nary a comment. We never caught the name of the petitioner, either, or the reason for the Hopkins Street rezoning request. Could it be a precedent has been set?

• Bravo to the few souls who didn't go along with the $142,000 cut in the school budget. Bravo, too, to selectmen for recognizing the schools' need.

• How about a survey to find out why Wilmington citizens insist on crowding in the rear during town meetings?

• Wasn't it nice of the redevelopment authority to stand by its gift of $110,685, despite the extra funds?

• If he's smart, Mike McCoy will bring in his own microphone from now on. It must be frustrating to have so much to say and no way to say it.

• Sally Cosman's red glasses caught everyone's eye.

• Moderator Michael Caira acted the typical dad as he hammed it up for the cameras in bidding his son Brian good-night. Hope the audio was on.

• What police officer got trapped in our town clerk's car and needed some help finding the handle?

• The folding seats in the gym ought to be banned. Residents with back problems should stage a sit-down strike -- on the floor.

• Will the debt exemption pass November 4? Concerned citizens want to know.

• Was fincom's Neil Waisnor really caught napping?

• Will the high school renovation EVER get done? Have faith.

• What's the distinction between passed over and withdrawn?

• Will future town meetings ever again end by 10 p.m?

• Will the animal shelter ever get built?

• Kudos to the unsung officials who gave up many late nights to finally reach an agreement on the proposed budget cuts. With the "Massachusetts Miracle," you're sure to get another shot next year.

letters to the editor

Dear Larz:

This is an open letter to the parents of Wilmington school children.

On October 24, 1989 at the High School at 7:30 p.m., you all are going to be asked to make the time to attend a panel discussion on the subject of AIDS. This program is open to all parents as well as anyone else in the community who would like more information on this virus. I have volunteered and am very grateful to Mrs.Rushton for allowing me to become a part of this team effort.

I have just returned from Washington, D.C, after being asked to be a member of the Boston team to be a part of the opening ceremonies of the National AIDS quilt which was on display there. As many of you know, AIDS hit the life of my husband, Jim, and he died of this horrible virus in March of this year. In memory of him, his panel was on display for the first time in the National AIDS quilt. There are just no words to describe the experience of being a part of such an enormous undertaking. "Overwhelming" would be mild, every emotion that one person could go through in a short period of time is what happened to me. A part of you just wants to run away and pretend that this did not actually affect your life, and yet another part of you needs to be there because you have lost someone you love to AIDS and the quilt does "keep their memory alive."

I guess I come back to Wilmington with an even stronger conviction that we MUST educate everyone on the subject of AIDS. When you see 14 acres of quits, it really hits that this is EVERYONE's problem and only we can take control of what happens to us and the ones we love. Don't be naive into thinking that this could not possibly touch your lives, because I and Jim's daughter are walking proof that it does hit home.It is devastating when you watch someone who is your whole life, die, little by little, and there is absolutely nothing you or anyone else can do to "make it go away."

It is my fondest hope that by participating in these programs for parents and students, that you will come to learn some very hard facts and information. There are an awful lot of myths and truths about AIDS and to know which is which is critical in everyone's education about this virus. Don't wait until it is too late, now is the time for all of us to pull together.

Being involved with all these caring people in this program means a lot to me, if I can help sort out the details and just maybe make a few people think twice, then I guess Jim's deaths may make more sense to Kelly and me. He would want me to do anything so that someone else would not have to go through what he did.

Sincerely,
Suzi Cushing

Dear Larz:

A comment in response to Arlene Suprenant's Oct. 4 article and observation on the Ice Cream Wars on behalf of my family and I.

While I fully understand why both ice cream vendors were asked to attend the board of health meeting on Monday, October 2, 1989, some very important factors were missed. They were misunderstood or not mentioned at all because of the time factor, while some facts during the meeting were uttered in falsehood with deceitful intention toward our family business.

To sum up the story of this most disturbing summer would be to say in plain truth that the other vendor could not deal with our competition. She did not want another ice cream vendor in town. This was not for her to say.

Our family very innocently decided to take on this project for the summer as a part time business for us all to participate in and work as a family. We all looked forward to helping one another and went about it with great enthusiasm not only as a business but as a learning experience for us all. My children love people and children alike and are very well known as town and school participating athletes, honor students, and morally good children. They were as excited as I to do this together.

However, all of this was blackened. We knew there was competition in town. What business doesn't have competition in America today? This was not to be a problem. This prospect of good was defaced not by being unable to face competition but by the way our competitor subjected my family and me to intentional harassment and infringement on us on a daily basis because she just didn't want our competition.

Many times I wanted to give up on this venture that I was once very excited about, but my husband, Angelo, and my children encouraged me not to. Our first and foremost concern in our venture was always our children and the children of Wilmington and not subjecting them to bad example of jeopardizing their safety in any way. We have always tried as parents to instill in our children throughout their childhood years the importance of independence, self esteem and belief in themselves at all times, especially in difficult situations. We've taught them to stand up for what they believe in; how could I give up?!!

We were most embarrassed many times by this woman's foul language and accusations, but we had to see it through. It wasn't easy for me or my family, as many friends and supporters saw. We tried to cooperate with our competitor in many ways. We didn't want to run her out of town as she stated to Arlene Suprenant. After all, how could we do that with her three trucks to my one. She also was very experienced in her business. We just wanted peace and to be able to run our ice cream truck. We were victims of circumstances.

Cooperation was not good enough for our competitor; she wanted a contest carried on by force. We never dealt with people resembling her personality and her employees alike. There were times she forced us to resort in a similar manner (words) to protect our virtue. However, we never bodily harmed anyone.

The other vendor took another step in her defiance against us since none else worked for her. She took us to court in hopes again of scaring us off. We were told through her employees and alike that if we stopped selling ice cream at the lake and kidsplace, there would be no court. Again, her way of dealing with competition.

We were not deterred by her threats and charges. We sought counsel and will continue to contend with this matter all the way. We will continue to serve the children of Wilmington and our friendly patrons.

On behalf of my family and I, I wish to thank all those who have supported us during this difficult time.

Annette Ciaramaglia and family,
Angelo, John, Michelle, Nicole

Dear Larz:

An understanding of the decision-making process is vital to successful administration. As principal of the Shawsheen School I want to commend Mr. Gerald LaPointe who served as our acting assistant principal through the month of September.

He clearly demonstrated the ability to understand how to make decisions, communicate with every aspect of school life, and how to maintain such organizational effectiveness within the school. He is a born leader and has the unique ability to make full use of all the human resources available in a school building. He makes each person in the school organization feel important and function at a high degree of loyalty.

The way in which Gerald organized his time and assisted in operating our school was nothing short of marvelous. His enthusiasm, vigor and boundless energy were an example to us.

Wilmington Public School is quite fortunate to have someone of this high quality working in our schools. In simple terms, here at the Shawsheen school we really are thankful for all of his efforts.

Robert G. Coffill, Jr. Principal

Dear Larz:

There's something great for girls and young women, age 11 to 20, happening in Tewksbury on the first and third Wednesday evenings of each month. It's the meeting of the Wamesit Chapter of the International Order of Rainbow for Girls.

I used to be a member of the Rainbow when I was younger and for the past few years I've become familiar with the Wamesit Assembly because my stepdaughter is an officer there. What I like most about Rainbow is all the opportunities it offers teenage girls, opportunities to make good friends, opportunities to help other people through service projects, opportunities to practice charity, and opportunities to gain leadership skills, memory skills and public speaking skills. It teaches responsibility and in many ways it is like the scouts and other fine youth groups that emphasize good values.

Belief in God is emphasized in Rainbow, and people of any religion, except no religion, may become members. The organization is not affiliated with any specific church and girls generally belong to different parishes throughout the area.

There is a uniform for the Rainbow meetings. It is a white gown. The meetings are beautiful, partly because the girls look so pretty in their white gowns.

Rainbow is sponsored by the historic fraternal organizations, the Masons and Eastern Star, although you don't have to be related to a Mason or Eastern Star member to join. For people unfamiliar with the Masons and Eastern Star, you may be interested in knowing that one of the most famous Masons was our nation's first president, George Washington. That's another good point about Rainbow, it's patriotic. The girls also have lots of fun.

Right now the Wamesit Rainbow Assembly is trying to increase its membership. More about Rainbow can be learned at the Sunday, October 29 open house being held from 2 to 4 p.m. by the Wamesit Masons at the Masonic Temple next to the Junior High School. The public is welcome to attend. The Wamesit Rainbow Girls and their adult advisor will be delighted to talk to area girls and their parents interested in finding out more about Rainbow. Or for more information you may call the Mother Advisor, Mrs. Jean Morin, a Tewksbury resident.

Sincerely,
Elizabeth Hastings

Rotarians hear of ghostly revenge

by Bill Conlon

Rotary Club luncheon speakers are a varied lot. They may be business tycoons or financial wizards, people asking for funds for a worthy cause or people with an unusual hobby.

Last week's guest speaker for the Tewksbury Rotary Club was one of the latter.

Bob Waugh is a graphics artist, but his hobby is collecting ghost stories. He told one of his favorite stories at the Thursday luncheon meeting last week at the Anchor Restaurant, and you could hear a pin drop while he told his tale. Perfect for the season.

Waugh's story went as follows:

The Tyng family was a prominent one in the area, and they settled most of present-day Tyngsboro, hence the name of the town. But Colonel John Tyng, later Sir John, had a fellow in his employ named Colonel Butterfield, a burly Indian fighter and all-around roughneck.

In the early 1700s, a young girl in the area disappeared, and Colonel Butterfield suspected Indians, or the river bandits known to be operating along the Merrimack River.

One stormy night, a servant of the Tyng family came to summon Col. Butterfield, saying there was something amiss at the Tyng mansion. The obedient Col. Butterfield took the ferry across the river, and when they arrived at the mansion he noted that the servant had vanished.

Undaunted, Col. Butterfield went into the huge 22-room mansion, and saw that it was dark and apparently empty. He crossed the foyer, went up the stairs, and noticed a dim light coming from under one of the many doors in the mansion.

Butterfield tried to open the door, but the latch would not budge. After repeated attempts to open the door, he braced himself to crash through when the door suddenly opened.

There before him in the doorway stood the image of a dark-haired girl wearing a white gown, but he could see right through her! Butterfield recognized her as the girl who had disappeared.

The girl then said, "Ye may not enter here. This man in this room is mine."

The intrepid Colonel replied that he would indeed enter the room, and he walked right through the girl and into the room! Looking around, he saw an emaciated form lying on the big four-posted bed, and the man on the bed summoned him forward.

After a moment, Butterfield saw that it was his Lordship's son, John, also known as "Young John" Tyng, lying on the bed.

The younger Tyng confessed that the girl had been his lover, and that he her lured her to that same bed, and with the aid of a local doctor had given her laudunum (an opiate drug) then smothered her with a pillow and buried her nearby.

Young John, though married, was known as a rakehell, and frequented some of the rowdy pubs in nearby Chelmsford. Nobody had seen the young man in days, and Tyng said the girl's ghost had kept him in the bed for days, without food.

Young John Tyng begged Colonel Butterfield to take him away, and so the loyal retainer went to lift the young man from the bed.

He couldn't be budged. Butterfield was a stout and burly fellow, and he tried repeatedly, but he was unable to lift the frail man up from the bed.

Just then the ghost laughed, and Butterfield turned to see the girl's face was barely inches from his. The tip of her nebulous forefinger lay on Young John's chest. Then she spoke again.

"This man will die by cock-crow," she said. "You will bury him and carve his name and achievements on his stone, but the words will vanish."

And as she predicted, Young John Tyng died that night. Butterfield went back to town and returned with a group of men, and Young John was brought to the churchyard for burial. The girl's ghost was never seen again.

In Drake Cemetery in Tyngsboro, Waugh said, there is an ornate stone with scrollwork and etching, but no words and no name. Many believe it is the headstone of Young John.

Butterfield entered all in his diary, which is held in a reserve collection at the Tyngsboro library. The full account of the vengeful ghost is contained in his diary.

Stonecarvers tried at least three times in the past two hundred years to etch words on the stone, but the words fade away. The latest attempt was made after the turn of this very century, but still there are no words on John Tyng's grave.

The ghost kept her word, and she keeps it still.

Many thanks to Bob Waugh for the above ghost story.

Ghost story

Robert Waugh (left) is thanked for telling a ghost story to the Tewksbury Rotary Club last Thursday by President John Bolduc. The ghost story came from Tyngsboro, but was interesting nonetheless.

Flower Stop FLORISTS
Say it with FLOWERS... Because of the beauty of flowers is in itself a miracle and a symbol of hope. Flowers have always belonged at weddings, church services, and at those moments when humans feeling overflows.
Floral arrangements, sprays, and live plants sent in sympathy add dignity and colorful beauty to a funeral. These floral tributes radiate a warmth that enhances the funeral setting. When words fail, flowers are as beautifully alive as a memory.
At THE FLOWER STOP FLORIST, we think you should know that flowers provide comfort to the family as well as a tribute to the one they loved.
When it represents YOU, your sentiments deserve the BEST!

Pleasant interludes

A most enjoyable place to spend the entire four hours would have been at Wilmington's flu clinic held last Saturday at the town hall - what a fantastic place to meet and greet old friends!! And the entire venture was expertly carried out, moved along at a most pleasant tempo with little or no waiting - unless one chose to stand about and chat....a tip of the old fedora..."to ye."

A tip of the old "helmet "goes to members of Wilmington's Fire Department who took part in the great open house held on Sunday and enjoyed by all those in attendance - most informative to the adults and exciting for the youngsters -

Well done, all of you....very well done indeed!!

Second anniversay celebration for AIM

The general public is invited to help Access is Mandatory (AIM) members celebrate their second anniversary next Tuesday, October 24 at the Fourth of July Headquarters by Wilmington Common. Beginning at 10 a.m., members will hold a Craft Fair and Bake Sale. Refreshments will also be served until 2:30 p.m. Members have worked hard to create unusual gift items as well as handmade clothes and other articles. A white elephant table will be set up for flea market devotees.

AIM is made up of handicapped residents and volunteer helpers who meet once a week to socialize, enjoy a luncheon of homemade food, and just plain have fun. Guest speakers like Bunny Frey, who told of he experience in Honduras; Karl Peters, who spoke on the dangers of drug interaction; and John Brown, who handled a number of different topics, are scheduled from time to time.

Thanks to resident Anne Linehan, the group is now able to gather around a piano donated by Anne and have weekly sing-a-longs. Word games and card games as well as craft sessions and holiday parties also fill weekly agendas.

In two short years, AIM's membership has grown to an average of 30 members a week. The family type atmosphere continues to draw in young and old seeking companionship and fun.

AIM is open to all handicapped residents and others who would like to share their talents and time or who would just like a place to drop by for a few hours a week.

AIM Center is open each Tuesday from 9:30 a.m. to 2:30 p.m. at the Fourth of July Headquarters.

Tewksbury day at Rockingham Park

A Tewksbury School Committee scholarship fundraiser has been set for Sunday, October 29, at Rockingham Park in Salem, N.H.

The Tewksbury school board has decided to sponsor a scholarship of its own, but funds for such a gift cannot by rights be taken from the committee budget.

To raise scholarship money for a worthy high school graduate, the committee is sponsoring a dinner program at Rockingham Park, the thoroughbred racetrack in Salem, N.H., in the Belmont Room on the lower level. Tickets for the event will be sold soon by members of the school committee, at $18.50 each.

The event will include admission to the park and a daily racing booklet, along with choice of boneless breast of chicken or Boston schrod for dinner. The price of admission will include gratuity and meals tax.

Admission to the park will begin at 12:30 p.m., with an afternoon race card to begin at 1:30 p.m., but betting on the races is optional. No endorsement of gambling has been made by the school committee.

Rockingham Park is located at Exit 1 off Interstate 93 north, or by taking Route 28 through Salem, N.H. Valet parking is available at the track.

Shawsheen Tech open house Oct. 26

Visitors to the Thursday, October 26 Open House at Shawsheen Tech can try a trip around the world with computerized geography, view Saturn through a telescope, learn how nylon is made and obtain information about dozens of careers.

Academic programs will join the 20 shops in offering displays from 7 to 9 p.m., with students demonstrating vocational and technical skills. The English Department will show computer assisted reading programs and display curriculum; math and social studies materials will also be available for visitors perusal. A science classroom will be set up with the telescope facing Saturn or Venus, depending upon the night sky on Thursday. Visitors can test their skills in geometry by computer, see a dissection in Biology, and watch oceanography students make waves.

Most shops will be raffling prizes, which range from a car tuneup by the Automotive Department to a concrete planter from Masonry, and baked goods from Culinary Arts to tool trays and candleholders from Metal Fabrication. Other prizes include luncheon for four at the Ram's Head Dining Room, a day of beauty in cosmetology, a brass hammer from the machine shop and a car cleaning and waxing from auto body. Visitors must register for these prizes in the shop areas. A special drawing, just for eighth graders and their parents, will take place in the cafeteria.

Students, teachers and graduates will be available in both vocational and academic areas to answer questions about the school and its programs. Guidance counselors will be on hand to discuss career and college opportunities for students with a variety of backgrounds and interests who choose Shawsheen Tech. Open House attendees can use the guidance information system to do a career search or check out college information files for two and four year schools.

Seventh and eighth graders and their parents from the Shawsheen District towns of Bedford, Billerica, Burlington, Tewksbury and Wilmington are especially invited; other interested residents are also welcome.

Open House begins with an overview in the school cafeteria at 7 p.m. Visitors can pick up school maps for a self guided tour, or request a student guide to visit special areas of interest.

School sports and activities will be represented through a diving competition and synchronized swimming at the pool, demonstrations in the gym by Project Adventure students and the state championship cheerleading squad, and students representing Vocational Industrial clubs of America (VICA), who will distribute information about this skill and leadership organization.

Ski swap this weekend

The Wilmington Ski Club, a club designed to offer skiing instruction and trips to students in grades four through 12 will be holding a Ski Swap and Sale Saturday, October 21 from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. and Sunday, October 22 from 1 to 3 p.m. at St. Thomas' Villanova Hall, 126 Middlesex Ave., Wilmington.

During this time people of all ages may sell old but usable equipment or clothing. They may also purchase used equipment and clothing.

Several ski shops will be present to sell and rent equipment. Information will be available concerning upcoming trips offered by the club.

Public Power Week display at Wilmington Library

The Reading Municipal Light Department (RMLD) Public Power Week display will be at the Wilmington Public Library from October 23 through 27.

The display, coordinator by Maureen McHugh of the RMLD, features informational material, lighting fixtures and utility equipment. The RMLD prepared the traveling display to bring attention to the benefits associated with public power and to focus attention on Energy Awareness Month.

"Hundreds of Reading and North Reading residents went to the library to see the display in their hometown," RMLD Manager Len Rucker said. "We urge Lynnfield and Wilmington residents to do the same when the display is at their respective libraries."

In addition, the Public Power display coincides with an RMLD poster contest conducted in the four communities. The contest for fourth grade students in Lynnfield begins on October 16 and ends November 3 while the Wilmington contest will begin October 23 and end November 10.

For additional information on the poster contest, contact Maureen McHugh at (617) 944-1340.

Painting classes at Tewksbury High

Drawing and painting classes are in full wing at Tewksbury High School. It has been heard that last year's graduates, Sonja Dickson, Damon Psarris, and Craig Thomas are enjoying their art classes at the University of Lowell.

Seasonal still lifes have been set up in both Mr. Rogacki and Mr. Sullivan's art classes.

Student Lori Salmeri finds the shapes and textures of the pumpkins, flowers, and corn stalks both challenging and visually stimulating.

Art Director Mr. Donald Sullivan, feels that during these times of fiscal constraints, the schools must look to the community for many of the special items which can spice up the curriculum. It is for this reason the art department would like to extend a special thanks to Honeysuckle Rose and Mahoney's II Greenhouses for supplying the wonderful still life display.

Wilmington school news

Project Enterprise

Students enrolled in Project Enterprise, Wilmington's program for academically talented students will travel to Boston this week to the Museum of Fine Arts. Students in grades four and five will participate in a special program dealing with Greek and Roman Mythology. Students have been researching Greek/Roman Gods/Goddesses this term as well as other mythological characters from other cultures. Students are busy preparing original myths and art work depicting their interpretations of natural phenomena in the world about them.

Students in grade six at the North and West Intermediate schools have been involved in a unit entitled "Creative Encounters with Famous People." Students have researched famous people past and present and will present a 20/20 type video documentary later in the month. Students will travel to the Kennedy Library this Friday for a special program dealing with the late President's involvement with famous creative people.

West Intermediate

Seventh and eighth grade Spanish students at the West Intermediate School collected $160.00 to help the victims of Hurricane Hugo.

These students of Mr. Young were interested especially in helping the Spanish speaking victims of Puerto Rico.

Throughout the week students took in various newspaper articles describing the destruction on the island.

With their interest peaked, they decided to send a donation. The check for $160.00 was sent to the Red Cross in Boston with specific instructions for use in Puerto Rico.

The first half day of school this year will be on Tuesday, October 31. School pictures will be taken that morning and students will have an early dismissal. Fliers are being sent home to parents with information on the cost of the pictures.

The next PAC meeting at the West will be on Thursday, October 26. If parents wish to request a specific agenda item or would like further information they should call the school at 694-6050.

High School
Financial Aid Night

Get your calendars set for Financial Aid Night No. 1 on December 11. Seniors and parents are advised to attend changed FAF. Prospective college bound students and parents are also welcome since it is never too early to get all the information you can for better planning. The informed are the best prepared! Further information will be given at a later date.

Woburn Street School

The annual Pumpkin Fair will be Saturday, October 21, from 9 a.m. to 1:30 p.m. at the Woburn Street School. There will be crafts, games, pony rides, sweets, lunch and of course, pumpkins. We are having activities and fun for everyone, so stop by and join us. Everybody is invited!

This is Fire Prevention Week. Tuesday, Oct. 10 the Wilmington firemen visited classrooms and presented a program on fire prevention. We wish to thank the Fire Department for providing this important service.

Our candy drive is in high gear. Thanks to all the parents and children for their support. Your help in this endeavor will greatly benefit our children.

The Zoo Program will be held Thursday, Oct. 19. This is a great experience for teachers and children.

Next PAC meeting will be Tuesday, November 7 at 9:30 a.m. at the Woburn Street School cafeteria. There is a social hour after the meeting that allows us to get better acquainted. Hope to see you all there!

Wildwood School

We would like to thank the parents of Wildwood School students for attending our first PAC meeting. The meeting was very productive. Discussions were on the upcoming fundraisers, school activities and family events for the school year.

Our all occasion gift wrap fundraiser is now underway. We look forward to your support of this project so we can continue to offer the children of Wildwood the scheduled educational/enrichment programs.

Shawsheen School

Just a few reminders: All parents are urged to attend the October 19 (Thursday) PAC meeting at 7:30 p.m. in the school cafetorium. We also look forward to seeing everyone Friday , October 20 at 7 p.m. in the school cafetorium. The Harvest Moon pie auction is this year's first family night. Take your baked goodies and see Mr. Coffill auction them off to the highest bidder.

The PAC's first fundraiser is currently underway. Parents were informed that the candy bar drive is a voluntary endeavor which will run until November 1. No child is to go door to door! Chocolate lovers may purchase a bar for $1.00. All profits will be used toward enrichment and recreational programs for all the children at Shawsheen.

Students at the Shawsheen School have been purchasing books and related materials at the school's annual book fair this week. Each grade visited the fair during his regularly scheduled library time. Parents also had an opportunity to go and browse. We thank Martha Mahoney for all her hard work in making the fair a wonderful experience for all.

North Intermediate School

A Student Council Dance will be held Friday, October 27 from 7 to 10 p.m. at the North Intermediate School cafetorium. Students in grades six, seven and eight may attend.

Congratulations to the following students for being elected to the Student Council for the 1989-1990 school year:

Grade six, Christine Rogers, Elise Boisvert, Michael Caira; grade seven, John Lynch, Ryan Swasey, Kathaleen Rooney; grade eight, Marco Vitale, Scott Palmer, Angela Caira.

The Book Fair will be held through October 20.

All fundraising should be in by Friday, October 20.

Wilmington senior topics

We thank Phyllis Hailey and her hard working Fair Committee of seniors who donated many hours last Friday, Saturday and Sunday sorting and pricing donated articles, setting up tables,and working Saturday and Sunday selling articles from these tables. Thanks also to the seniors who donated so many beautiful items and to the seniors and their families and friends who purchased them to make the fair a success.

Winners

The winners of all the raffle articles will be listed on the wall of the center. the TV set was won by Janice Burke. We had too many to list in this column. If you would not be coming to the center and would like to know who won the articles on chances, call the center. If you did not get a chance to get to the fair, we have many beautiful articles left that would make excellent Christmas presents.

Holiday dinner dance

We have the tickets to the Tewksbury/Wilmington Elks Wilmington Senior Citizen Annual Holiday Dinner Dance. Those who have already signed up may pick up their tickets at the center. We have about 60 more openings; after they are gone we will be starting a waiting list. The social will be held at the Elks Hall in Tewksbury November 9.

Nurse

Nurse Ann will not be at the center this Thursday, October 19. She will be checking blood pressures and giving diabetes tests on Thursday, October 26.

Flu shots

If you did not get a flu shot and would like one, Ann will be giving them at the center Wednesday, October 25 and Tuesday, November 7 from 1:30 to 3:30 p.m.

Whist October 23

The second whist of October will be held Monday, the 23rd. This month the Rotary Club's $25 food gift certificate will be raffled at the 23rd whist. If you have not put your free ticket in the box on the counter, it is time to do so if you wish to be a winner. When you ask Louise for the Rotary Club ticket, also ask her for the Lions Club free ticket on their $50.00 food gift certificate. This certificate will be drawn at the November 6 Council on Aging meeting. All of our shutin seniors will be included in these drawings.

Bingo October 20

The bingo game will resume Friday, October 20 in the function room at 1 p.m. The game is free to all our seniors. All money made by selling the bingo cards is returned to the seniors as prizes for the winners of the games.

Selfish, greedy etc???

All of us have been listening to the television and reading in the newspapers and magazines of how the elderly in the country have been labeled as selfish, greedy, and many other names, because we refused to accept the catastrophic health care bill passed by Congress last year. It is obvious to us these people have not read through the Bill. If they had, they would see it in no way could be called a catastrophic health care when there is no mention of the medical catastrophic health care we live in fear of - being confined to a nursing home when we are unable to care for ourselves. The cost of such care can range from $4,000 to $6,000 a month or $48,000 to $72,000 a year. Even the wealthy senior citizens as those of us slighly above the poverty line have been labeled will continue as the majority of us are now dying stripped of everything we have worked a lifetime for.

Worked and sacrificed to live independently until we die. But how do we die? A pauper, a ward of the state we live in. To stop this travesty on a person when they become old and unable to care for themselves. All we ask the Congress do is add this coverage to our present Medicare. The elderly on Social Security will continue to pay a good portion of their Medicare. Statistics will show that only a small percentage of us will live long enough to enter a nursing home, but we hope for those who will, they will not die in poverty.

Please sign the petition on the counter at the center and join the seniors throughout the country requesting an amended catastrophic health care bill include nursing coverage in it, for the elderly today and those who will follow after us.

Junior Rotarians The first Junior Rotarians of the year in Wilmington are (right) Todd Brisbois of Boutwell Street who plans to attend the University of Miami. At left is Brian Gillis of Grand Street. He plans to attend South Vermont College.

Janet Stearns told Tighe she was against fee simple ownership of the units. She said she'd rather see a Homeowners Association established to cover any common costs. Tighe said nothing had been decided yet. He recognized that something would have to be done to assure maintenance of the buildings and lawn and to help take care of small problems which could crop up among home owners. Tighe suggested "little associations" be created in the quads.

"We're going to have to do something," he agreed.

In other business, the task force unanimously elected Carole Hamilton of the Wilmington Planning Board, to be its new chairman. She was nominated by Bruce MacDonald and was the only candidate considered for the position formerly held by Selectman Jim Stewart.

Wilmington police news

Four Somerville men were arrested Wednesday night after Officer Steve Mauriello observed them emptying the Salvation Army clothing receptical at Eastgate Plaza.

Anezio Heringer, Albion Street; Wellington Oliveira, Pleasant Street; Charles Queiros, Mt. Pleasant Street and Francisco Viana, Albion Street were charged with larceny under $250. Officers Miller and Hanlon assisted.

At 1:30 a.m. Thursday, three people were arrested on drug charges by Officer Joe Desmond assisted by Officers Jepson and Richter and Sgt. Duffy.

Brian Page of Colonial Drive, Andover; Valerie Conte, Woburn Street, Reading and William Reynolds of Oak Street, Wakefield were charged with possession of Class B and C drugs (cocaine and hashish) and drug paraphenalia.

They were all bailed for an appearance in Woburn Court Thursday morning.

Friday night Officer Miller arrested Michael Klotz of Lucille Drive, Tewksbury at the Lowell police station on the basis of a default warrant issued by Woburn Court. He was held for the weekend in lieu of $300 cash bail and appeared in court Monday morning.

At 2 a.m. Saturday Officer Charlie Fiore arrested Thomas Linehan, Jr. of Princeton Street, Lowell charging him with operating under the influence. Linehan failed a breathalyzer test with a reading of .25. This will result in his license being suspended at his arraignment Monday morning.

Marty Byrd of Lincoln Street, Wilmington was arrested by Officer Paul Chalifour on the basis of a Woburn Court warrant. He was bailed for court Monday.

Officer Jim White arrested Earl Hilderbrand, of Ballard Street, Tewksbury Satuday night after a computer check revealed an arrest warrant and that his license had been suspended.

Paul Marotta of Grace Drive was arrested at 2 a.m. Sunday by Officer David Axelrod who charged him with operating under the influence. He was bailed for Monday court.

At 1 a.m. Monday Officer Axelrod arrested Lynn Flaherty of Mystic Avenue, charging her with operating under the influence. She was bailed for a Monday court appearance. After taking a breathalyzer test and scoring a .19, she will have her license suspended at her arraignment.

Monday night Officer Jim Hanlon arrested Phillip Moore of Gardner Street, Peabody, after a traffic stop on Ballardvale Street. A computer check revealed an arrest warrant.

Volunteers sought for school improvement councils

The Wilmington School Committee seeks interested community persons (age 18 or over) who wish to serve on School Improvement Councils for the schools to decide how to expend funds to improve school programs in each school according to Chapter 188 of the Acts of 1985 of the State of Massachusetts.

You must not be a parent of a child at the school for which you serve.

You must agree to participate as a member of the School Improvement Council with three teachers, two parents of children in the school, and the school principal (chairperson) to expend funds to enhance and improve the educational programs for students in the school at two to six scheduled meetings.

If you wish to serve your community and be considered for appointment by the Wilmington School Committee as a non-parent member of the Chapter 188, State of Massachusetts legislation please forward a letter of interest to:

Robert E. Surran, Chairman, Wilmington School Committee, 159 Church St., Wilmington, MA 01887 on or before November 9, 1989. For further information call 694-6000.

Nip Methuen, 13-12

Wildcats ready for Central, Dracut

Don't look now, but the Wilmington High School football Wildcats, all 22 of them, have won three football games and are indeed ahead of archrival Tewksbury in the Merrimack Valley Conference football standings.

What coach Ed Harrison's Wildcats don't have in numbers they more than make up for in heart, as the team won on the road at Methuen Saturday, coming back to nip the Rangers, 13-12 on two Bob Fleming touchdown runs and a fourth quarter conversion kick by quarterback Dennis Walsh. The Wildcats have now defeated Lawrence, Haverhill and Methuen this season and are gearing up for consecutive home games against unbeaten Lawrence Central Catholic and defending conference champ Dracut High School.

Yes, the fire is back in WHS football, and the crowds should be back in full force over the next two Saturdays. What has helped spark this Wilmington surge is a resurgent offense that has helped support a defense that has been one of the best in the conference over the past two seasons.

Saturday Walsh and the Wildcats compiled 338 yards of total offense behind the receiving of Bob Voner and Greg Catanzano. Catanzano has put together an all-conference season at both tight end and linebacker for Wilmington. Saturday he made six catches good for 70 yards and has come up with 24 pass receptions over the first five games.

While the Wildcats appear to be peaking, the Tewksbury Redmen continue to search for an offense behind sophomore quarterback Dana Boudreau and a fleet of young skill performers.

Saturday the Redmen ran into St John's Prep quarterback Rick Dembowski who connected on an 81 yard bomb in the fourth quarter that helped send TMHS down to a 14-7 defeat. Boudreau had six completions for 132 yards, while Sean Mackey had four catches good for 121 yards. Linebacker Brian Brooks was the star defensively with 10 tackles for Tewksbury.

Saturday the Redmen should get untracked offensively when they host Methuen at Doucette Field starting at 1:30 p.m.

Tewksbury Youth Football

Cherokee topple Pawnee

Cherokee 13 Pawnee 7

The initial game of the weekly Tewksbury Youth Football doubleheader showcased the tough Cherokee against the relentless Pawnee.

The Cherokee struck first, as Matt Petros found Dan Canada all alone in the endzone for the first passing touchdown of the year for the in-town football program.

The conversion was successful, as Joe Mercer dove in from the three yard line.

Following a few changes of possession keyed by the excellent special team play by Jay McLafferty and Brian Sinkus of the Cherokee and Mark Morris, Mark Garabedian and Chris Keating of the Pawnee, the Cherokee scored again. Quarterback Matt Petros scrambled in from the 15 on the option. The conversion failed, as Eric and Alex Rhyund with Sean Sylvain stacked up the Cherokee offensive line.

The tough Cherokee defense, behind Chris Maxwell, Brian Baxter and Sinkus, continued to hang tough through the third quarter.

The Pawnee struck back in the fourth quarter, as David Hutchinson connected with Kevin Andriollo for a 50 yard touchdown pass/run combination for the score. Mike Lynch, following the blocking of Kevin Mowatt, went in for the conversion. The final score of 13-7 was maintained as both defenses dug in.

Sioux 26 Navaho 20

The second game of the day pitted the undefeated Sioux against the ever-dangerous Navaho. The game began innocently enough, with the Navaho driving down the field behind the running of John Buckley and the blocking of Justin Leone and Daniel Craig.

Midway through tthe first quarter the Sioux stopped the Navaho drive, forcing the punt. Jason Frasca of the Sioux fielded the punt and raced upfield behind the blocking of Jay Higgins, John Malfy and Michael Saber for a 60 yard touchdown on the return. Mike Torode dove in for the conversion making the score 7-0.

The Sioux recovered a Navaho fumble on the third play following the kickoff. Two plays later

MVC cross country

TMHS scores solid victory

The cross country course at Andover High School covers a great deal of rough terrain, but the boys' and girls' teams from Tewksbury High School mastered it and their Andover opponents.

The girls' solid 21 to 36 victory kept them locked in a first place tie with Lowell in the MVC. The boys' equally impressive 24 to 34 win kept them in first place in the MVC Small School Division.

Heather Farrand set a new course record on the Andover layout, as she strode home in a very fine time of 17:08. A freshman new to cross country, Heather has already started to make her mark in the MVC.

Maureen Forsyth also ran a tremendous race, clocking the second fastest time ever on the course, 17:15, to take second place.

As usual, it was the solid Tewksbury team depth that won the meet. Jennifer Harmon ran one of her best races of the season to take fourth in 17:23. Wendy Fowler grabbed sixth, Joanne McNamara eighth and Kim Farrand ninth to nail down the win.

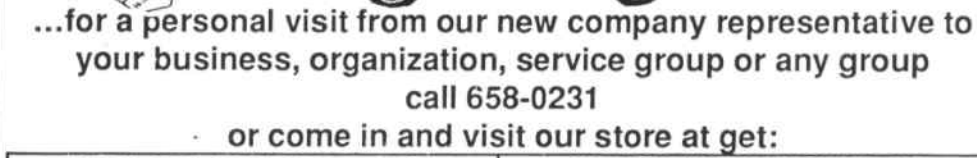

Although Andover's Jon Bicknell won the boys race, the TMHS boys' team clearly dominated the meet. Jeff Rideout took second place with a fine performance behind the record setting Bicknell. After that, Kevin Kelley led a steady parade of Tewksbury runners across the line: Kelley in fourth, Steve Brann in fifth, Tim Martin in sixth, Joey Bangs in seventh and Mike Garabedian in eighth place.

Brian Andriolo ran a good race to run away with the JV competition involving 14 runners.

NEW DRIVERS ADDED TO THE POLICY

Learning the rules of the road and developing safe driving habits are not the only factors involved in young drivers' early experiences. They must also be reported as additional drivers to the insurance company that provides the family's auto coverage. Young drivers operating under a learner's permit in the company of an adult need not inform the insurance company of their driving status until they get a license. At that time, parents must be sure to include them in the policy. Similarly, the insurance company must be notified if a new member to the household will be operating an insured vehicle. New drivers in the family should not let their excitement obscure their responsible need for insurance.

Your insurance agent can assist you in procuring the proper amount of coverage required to keep you adequately insured. Peridocially review your automobile coverage to be sure that all aspects of the policy provide the coverage you need to provide the scope of protection you require. Service is the philosophy of SPINELLI INSURANCE AGENCY, INC. We endeavor to consistently offer you the finest, most up-to-date coverage and services available to meet your needs. Our office is conveniently located at 90 Woburn St., Wilmington. To reach us, call (508) 658-5064. Office hours are from Mon.-Fri., 9-5.

HINT: New car owners may want to upgrade the collision coverage that once applied to their older vehicles.

WHS halftime show

The Wilmington High School band was in fine form during halftime of Saturday's game at Methuen. (Stu Neilson photo).

quarterback Mike Callahan fired a strike to Mike Bernard for a 50 yard touchdown. The subsequent conversion failed.

At this point the Navaho tightened their chin straps and held the Sioux for the half. The second half became a dogfight, as the Navaho held the Sioux on their first possession and returned the punt for a touchdown as Anthony DeAngelo raced down the sidelines for the 55 yard score, making the score, 13-7.

The Sioux once again took to the air, as Callahan and Bernard hooked up for a 65 yard pass for the score. The Navaho dug in to stop the conversion, making the score 19-7.

The Navaho refused to be intimidated and came back with a 10 yard touchdown off tackle, bringing the score to 19-13. Back the Sioux came behind the power running of Mike Torode, behind the excellent blocking of Matt Murray, George Rodgers and Kevin Delaney, for another score as Torode went in from the seven yard line. Dan Smart then swept in for the score for a 26-13 margin.

The gutsy Navaho took the ball at the 50 and drove the field for a 20 yard sweep by Ben Christopher for the final touchdown. The coversion was good. The Sioux fielded the onside kick and ran out the clock to narrowly avoid defeat at the hands of the Navaho.

This game provided some excellent special team play from Shawn Tiberio, Chad Welch and Ralph Perrotti of the Navaho.

MYFA action

Midget A

Chicopee 22 Tewksbury 8

Both the Midget and Junior Midget teams traveled to Chicopee with similar results, as the Chicopee Braves and Tewksbury Redmen faced off.

Chicopee, showing an excellent defense and outstanding speed, beat the Redmen (A), 22-8. The offense, led by Ryan Sheehan, kept running into trouble inside the Chicopee 20.

The running game, fueled by Brian O'Keefe and Chris Snow, consistently picked up yardage between the 20's only to come away empty.

Chicopee gained good field position due to turnovers and was able to overun a good Tewksbury defense led by Luke Fuller, Scott Haddad and Tom Keating.

Tewksbury finally got on the board at the beginning of the fourth quarter, as Chris Snow went in from the six yard line. The conversion was good as O'Keefe slanted in off of two Chicopee tacklers.

Junior Midget (B)

Chicopee 12 Tewksbury 0

The Tewksbury B team ran head first into the undefeated and unscored upon Chicopee Braves.

Chicopee capitalized on a big play offense and scored on a beautifully executed 55 yard screen pass. The other score came following a 35 yard fake punt on a three yard dive.

The Tewksbury offense moved the ball fairly well behind the passing of quarterback Mike Franke and the receiving of Jeff Parker and Jason Clement.

The Chicopee defense continually held firm inside the 20 and denied the Tewksbury offense.

The Redmen defense was led by the outstanding play of Brian Murray and Brandon Cave and featured several touchdown saving tackles by Jeff Parker.

The special teams were keyed by the play of Charley Horton, Scott Abbott and Kevin Schmidt and played very well with the exception of a faked punt.

The Tewksbury teams will now enjoy a well earned week free from dual meet competition, during which they will prepare for their tough final meets against Chelmsford, Haverhill, Lowell and Dracut.

Wilmington Pop Warner

A' squad remains undefeated

A team (6-0)

Wilmington's A team took both games the past two weeks, winning 37-6 against Marlboro and defeating previously undefeated Sudbury, 22-0 this past Sunday in a hard-hitting, well played affair.

Wilmington's offensive and defensive lines played especially well in the win against Marlboro. Wilmington's offense put the game away early, as they ran out to a 22-0 first quarter lead and extended that lead to 29-6 by halftime.

Touchdowns were scored by Keith Pearlstein, Randy Johnson and Rich DeLucia, while the final score of the game was turned in by offensive tackle turned running back Jimmy Angiolillo in the fourth quarter for the final 37-6 outcome.

Fine efforts were turned in by Steve Boiven, Ryan McNee, Vinnie Strow, Buddy Pratt and Jason Grady on the defensive and offensive lines as well as runnng backs Johnson, Pearlstein and Scott McKenzie.

In Wilmington's big win over Sudbury the offense produced some hard earned touchdowns by Randy Johnson, Keith Pearlstein and a McKenzie to Johnson pass for the 22-0 win.

However, the story of the game was the defense led by the fine all-around play of Danny Ballou, Keith Pearlstein, Jimmy Angiolillo, Rick Blizzard and Johnson.

Fine offensive perfomances were turned in by Joe Lyman, Richie Muse, Phil Florence, Jeff Morin,Eric "Boomer" Robbins and Scott McKenzie.

The A's next play at Burlington, Sunday at 2 p.m.

B team splits (2-3-1)

Wilmington's B team splits its' games the last two weeks with a hard earned 13-0 victory over Marlboro while going down in defeat to a tough and talented Sudbury team, 19-0.

Against Marlboro the B's completely dominated play, with offensive linemen Jack Warford, Jeff Senarian, Derek Santini, Billy Smith and Rich Maynard opening large holes for running backs Sean Ballou, Steve Walsh and Steve O'Neil to run through.

Touchdowns were scored by O'Neil and Mike Gilbert. While on the other side of the ball, the Wilmington defense was led by Brian Tildsley, Derek Riley, Bobby Kelly, Matt Southmayd and David Maglio who completely shutdown Marlboro.

The B team then took on undefeated Sudbury only to lose 19-0 to a strong Warrior Club. Fine offensive efforts were turned in by Billy Coffill, Phil Ritucci, Shawn Barden, Chris Carter and Danny Lutz.

While defensively, despite allowing 19 points, good games were turned in by David Sullivan, Brian Ashdown, Josh Levesque, Jay Iannichino, John Florence, Paul Bruno, Jason Gardner and Joe "Crunch" Alonardo.

The B team will be back in action Sunday, 12:30 p.m. in Burlington.

C team splits (2-3-1)

The Wilmington C team split two tough, well played games the past two weeks, losing a heartbreaker to Marlboro, 6-0 while defeating a good Sudbury team, 6-0.

In their loss to Marlboro, the C team employed its' new power I offense and consistently moved the ball all over the field behind the fine offensive performances of Adam Mazza, Lee Trimachi, Robert Parker, Sean Kerrigan, David Bennett and John Civetti.

Defensively, the C's played well, with good efforts turned in by David Senarian, Jason Giangregorio, Kevin Tildsley, Jason Arsenault and John Reitchel.

The C team continued to improve with their new offense and again moved the ball all over the field, this time however it produced a big win for the young Wildcats over a good Sudbury team.

Good efforts offensively were turned in by Billy Holloway, Richie Gillis, Steve Ritucci, David Gaudreau, Adam Grady, Tom Perreault and Rob Bentley, while the "Big D" held Sudbury scoreless behind fine efforts by Steve Johnson, Corey Brennen, Jeff Ferese, Jason Guglielmi, Wayne Francis and Tom McNamara.

The C team will be back in action Sunday at 11 a.m. in Burlington.

D team (6-0)

Tahe Wilmington D team remained undefeated with two wins during Pop Warner action, defeating Marlboro, 12-0 and rolling over Sudbury, 25-0.

In the win over Marlboro the D team made it five in a row with a tremendous defensive effort led by Jamie Campbell, who stole the ball from a Marlboro running back and rambled 61 yards for a touchdown.

Other outstanding plays were turned in by Tom Baratta (three sacks), Shane Warford, John Plunkett, Bill Harrison and Adam DePasquale.

The offense was led by Eric Clancy (16 yard touchdown run), Dave Santini, Dennis Torpey, Tim Gillis and Harrison in the backfield; while the offensive line play of Chris DuJulia, Adam Frost, Mike O'Toole, Pat O'Toole, Mike Berien, Dan Decoursey, Mike Maynard and Byron Mason controlled the line of scrimmage throughout.

Against Sudbury the D team remained undefeated with a convincing 25-0 victory. The offense was led by Bill Harrison (three touchdowns), Tim Gillis (one touchdown), John Plunkett, Eric Clancy, Jamie Campbell and David Santini, as well as linemen Matt Garrett, Leif Stott, Jimmy Cryst, Jason Tildsley, John Briand, John Stone and Pat O'Toole.

Defensively, the Wildcats dominated play with good efforts from Campbell, Plunkett, Harrison, Shane Warford, Jim Butler, Phil Bates, Jon Aprille, Rory Ballou, Mike Warford, Pat Carter, Chris Butler and Joe Moroney.

The D's will be back in action Sunday at 9:15 against Burlington.

Wilmington Youth Soccer highlights

This week Wilmington Youth Soccer has some terrific action to report from both in-town games and some travel teams. Hopefully, within the next two weeks the league will get some game reports from other travel teams who are playing very well.

Three important reminders for soccer fans, parents and coaches:

1. Fall soccer scholarship dance, this Friday, Oct. 20 from 7:30 p.m. to midnight, at the Knights of Columbus Hall. Tickets available at the door. To reserve a table call John Demarco, 658-5207.

2. There may still be room on the bus to the BC/UNH soccer game on Friday, Oct. 27. The bus will be leaving from the Fourth of July Headquarters at 4:45 p.m. The boys under 14 travel teams will be playing a mini-exhibition game before the BC/UNH game. The cost will be $2.00 for coaches and players; $4.00 for others. This covers admission and bus fare. All children must be accompanied by an adult. Please fill out forms available from your coach or at the trailer if you plan on attending this game.

3. Important calendar date: the annual soccer meeting will be held Monday, Nov. 6 at the Knights of Columbus Hall at 7:30 p.m. All parents, coaches helpers or anyone else interested in Wilmington soccer should attend. Elections for next year's board of directors will be held.

Wilmington Youth Soccer is a volunteer organization, and cannot function without a great deal of dedicated effort. If your child has participated in soccer, please help out, come to the meeting, consider volunteering for next year (coaching, B.O.D., committee, etc.).

Girls' under 14-1

The girls are off to a great start as they bring a 4-1 record into the sixth week of the season. They opened the season with a 3-0 victory in Wakefield followed by a convincing 4-1 win over North Reading. A well placed goal late in the next game by a Burlington striker led to 1-0 loss to a strong opponent. The Wilmington entry bounced back with a 2-0 victory over Woburn and a 6-0 surprise over Chelmsford.

After capturing the Middlesex Youth Soccer Division II title in 1987 (losing an overtime heartbreaker in the semifinal match of the state championship in Amherst), the girls have now moved into the top grouping of the Middlesex League. Based on the first five games, it appears they have found a home in Division I.

So far, the girls converted natural ability, hard work and a great attitude into a formula for success.

The players on this fine team include: Speedy, dynamic strikers (the scorers) Shannon Jepson, Jill Murphy, Nancy Pote, Erin Falzone and Karen DeFrancesco. Steady, hard working midfielders (the playmakers) include Adrienne Fay, Mary Armata, Jackie Hayden, Laura DeMarco, Jaime Forgett, Amy Hermann and Jean Ficociello.

The team's solid, powerful, quick thinking fullbacks (the unsung heros) are Lynette Sbano, Denise Langone, Erin Gilhooly and Kelly Silva. The four girls who have been outstanding in goal (.4 goals per game) are Mary Armata, Nancy Pote, Erin Gilhooly and Erin Falzone.

The girls will be facing strong competition over the remaining three weeks with matches against Wakefield and two tough Andover squads.

Boys' under 14-II

The boys played Burlington this week resulting in a 2-1 loss. In spite of this, they played one of their best games ever.

Minutes into the game Eric Jones scored the only goal of the game with an assist from Erik Shaffer.

Forwards Danny King, Darren Bishop, Dave Kenney and Glenn MacNeil kept the pressure on. Everyone had numerous shots on goal, but good goaltending by Burlington prevented anyone from scoring.

The halfback line of Paul Heigham, Doug Olender, Ryan Swasey and Garrett Whittemore continually regained control of the ball. All four youngsters played an outstanding game.

Keith Audette literally used his head many times in keeping the ball away from Burlington. Much help was given by Kevin O'Leary and Rob Bentley, who was able to keep the pressure on.

Tim Allard and Patrick Cahill nearly won the game, but again the goalie was alert. Defenseman Rob Bentley made an outstanding shot on goal toward the end of the game which could have tied th score.

Steven Smith was superb as usual in goal. His quick thinking prevented others from scoring.

Many thanks to Mr. Patrick Hoffman for taking the time to tape his game to show on WCTV.

Boys' under 12

Flames vs Rockets

Goal scorers for the Flames were Patrick Cucinotta and Craig Irwin. Matt Jones and Michael Gable made contributions on offense, while Keith Long and Jeff Stokes led the defense.

Ninja Turtles vs Smurfs

Danny Keating scored for the Smurfs. Evan O'Neil, Kyle Murphy and Joshua Hiltz played well. Greg Monteiro, Danny Butler and Chris Ramsdell displayed fine field play for the Ninja Turtles.

Ghostbusters vs Meteors

This scoreless tie was turned in by the shutout effort of Jason Thresher and David Silva. Steve Brady and Greg LeFave played excellent defense. Joseph Burns, Justin Reidy and Ryan Moroney played well offensively.

Green Machine vs Red Raiders

Eric Mantey and Peter Grasso each scored goals for the Green Machine. Eric Mantey also played a great game both defensively and offensively. The Burns trio kept the ball out of the net throughout the game. The Green Machine had 17 shots on net. The Red Raiders were helped by the strong play of Brian Godin, Charlie Rice, Joe Delaney, Matt Greenstein, Chad Horn, Jason Harris, Gian Romagnol and Chris Maglio.

Orange Crush vs Silver Streaks

In a well played game by both teams, Mike Nolan notched the only goal. His fellow Orange Crushers were led by David Lee, Eric Power and Joshua Michaud in goal. Mike Kane and Matt Marchesi provided excellent goalkeeping; playing well defensively was Greg Anderson. Bob Jones turned in a strong offensive performance.

Jaguars vs Corvettes

John Delorey scored with Fred Burke assisting on the lone score for the Corvettes. The goal scorers for the Jaguars were Rob Brisbois, Shawn Mahoney and Jeffery Driscoll. Joe Martinelli and Paul Scott played well in the field.

Camaros vs Lamborghinis

Jeremy Antonuk scored the only goal for the Lamborghinis. Goalie Mike Nadeau, forward Erin Morin and defender Paul Margino displayed excellent field play. Marc Power scored four goals and teammate Timmy Devlin notched two to lead the Camaros.

Goalkeeper Nick Pavlidas, forward Steve Shaw and defender Joey Palermo played exceptionally well in the field for the Lamborghinis.

Electric Grapes vs Sunspots

Thomas Smith, Jon Delaney and Jon DiPasquale played well in the field, while James Rourke chipped in the one goal for the Electric Grapes.

Billy Konaxis and Mike O'Connor each scored two goals, as the team was inspired by the fine play of Ryan Mason, Chris Catena, Adam Fournier and David Trucira.

Blue Thunder vs Purple Haze

Anthony Saroka played well in goal; John Betts and Ed Ouellette played well in the field. Two goals by Keith MacDonald and one by Jonathan Fay led the Blue Thunder.

Rockets vs Flames

Brandon Reinold scored for the Rockets. Jeffrey Hall, Nichols Paranaghesi and Richard Selig contributed outstanding field play.

Tulips vs Roses

Kelley Barden scored a goal for the Roses; Melissa Mather, Christina Lee, and Melissa Nickerson played great in a supporting role. The Tulips were led by Nikki Gounaris, Janet Gustafson, Michelle Spinine, Colleen Batten, Tricia Kane, Jennifer Cucinotta and Lauren Senesi, who scored their only goal.

Carnations vs Daisies

Good defense and hustle was shown by Charlene Tamilio, Becky Reed and Jennifer Johnson in supporting goalie Tarryn Daisy. Heather Brisbois and Suzanne Berghaus scored single goals for the Daisies.

Bluejays vs Parakeets

Katie Hickey, Jennifer Anderson and Robin Kantor showed fine soccer skills, while Laureen McCarthy rippled the nets for the Bluejays. Two fine goalies, Rebecca Gournais and Danielle Meegan, kept the score low, while Krista Wolfe, Jessica Kanach and Christine Carrozza were displaying good ball control.

Cardinals vs Peacocks

Beth MacDonald scored both goals

despite great defensive pressure by the Peacocks. Players who played well for the Cardinals include Lindsay Bruno and Jennifer McNabb. Molly Pidgeon and Christine Ross supported the goal scorers, Kristen Thomas and Robyn Nickerson.

Opals vs Emeralds

Elaine Bruno, Megan Soderquist, Danielle Moccia and Kerry Anderson played well for the Opals in this 3-0 game.

Girls' Under 16

The girls' U-16 travel team has arrived at the midpoint of their fall season and have compiled a 1-2-1 record in a very tough Division I conference.

The girls are playing extremely well and could easily have a winning record despite being placed in a powerhouse division with the likes of Andover, Medford, Lowell, Melrose and Burlington.

The team is well balanced, as newcomers Alyssa Falzone, Alyssa Sellers, Kim Laquidara, Rebecca Bouchie, Sarah Callahan, Jennifer Murray and Jennifer Powers have blended extremely well with veterans Julie Robinson, Gina DeSantis, Ellen Dehoff, Ann Marie Barletta, Tina Kelly, Stacey Ouellette, Marissa Volpe, Joy Michaud and Tobey Kenney to make a very talented and competitive team.

Stacy LaCorcia is another veteran player whose been sidelined this fall due to preseason knee surgery, but will rejoin the team for the 1990 spring season.

Tie with Medford

This was a grueling contest played in oppressive heat on a very windy Medford field.

In the first half, although Wilmington had more scoring chances, Medford went up 1-0 on a costly Wilmington defensive lapse when a Medford forward was allowed to dribble through three defenders and score. During this half Wilmington forwards Alyssa Falzone, Ellen Dehoff, Alyssa Sellers and Kim Laquidara had some good shots on goal, but were shutout by good goaltending.

In the second half the Wilmington defense played super, as they completely shutdown the Medford offense and limited their drives into the Wilmington zone. The few times that Medford did get past Wilmington's Big-D, they were stymied by goalie Stacey Ouellette, as she made some outstanding saves in net.

The defensive stars were led by Gina DeSantis at sweeper, and fullbacks Sarah Calalhan, Ann Marie Barletta, Jenna Powers and Jen Murray. Halfbacks Julie Robiinson, Becky Bouchie and Marissa Volpe also played great as they kept feeding the forwards, and it finally payed off as Ellen Dehoff scored midway through the half to salvage the tie.

Wilmington vs Burlington

This game found both the Wilmington and Burlington teams playing a very hard fought and intense game which ended up being decided by a well placed indirect kick from the top of Wilmington's penalty area.

Wilmington's premier goaltender Stacy Ouellette, who also minds the net of the high school varsity team, had no chance to make the save and the ball went sailing into the top left corner of Wilmington's goal, giving Burlington a 1-0 lead and eventually the win.

Ann Marie Barletta played an outstanding defensive game for Wilmington, as did Tina Kelly and Sarah Callahan.

Wilmington vs Melrose

This Wilmington team has always found Melrose a difficult team to beat. In fact, it has been many games since Wilmington has taken a win from the strong Melrose teams. This game changed all that.

Wilmington's Lady Cats came to play and to win. Imbedded in their memory was a game lost to Melrose which cost this same team of Wilmington girls a berth in the state playoffs some time ago and that Melrose has been a team which Wilmington would always have to beat in order to make good in the standings. The Lady Cats had their day of reckoning, and with a final score of 5-0, that's all she wrote.

Stacy Ouellette took home a well deserved shutou for Wilmington aided by the superb defensive squad of Tina Kelly, Jenna Powers, Kennifer Murray, Ann Marie Barletta and Sarah Callahan.

Julie Robinson led the team in scoring by neatly tucking three balls in the back of the Melrose net. That spells hat trick and a job well done by Wilmington's right wing. Assisting Julie as center forward was Gina DeSantis and at left wing Ellen Dehoff. Both Gina and Ellen had many shots on goal.

Also scoring for Wilmington was Kim Laquidara and Alyssa Seller. Strong games were also turned in by Marissa Volpe at center halfback and Alyssa Falzone, who played forward.

Loss to Lowell

After three tough games against Medford, Burlington and Melrose, Wilmington had to travel to Lowell for a game against an even tougher opponent, one which this team has yet to beat.

As in past games Lowell proved to be a very tough opponent, as they seemed to wear down the Wilmington defense in the second half to break open a close 2-2 battle and score three unanswered goals for the eventual win.

In the first half Wilmington kept pace with the Lowell as they swapped goals, first Lowell, then Wilmington would counter with one of its' own. Both teams traded goals for a final of 2-2 at the half.

The Wilmington goals were scored by Gina DiSantis and Kim Laquidara on hard work and persistent feeds by halfbacks Becky Bouchie, Joy Michaud and Tobey Kenny.

Fullbacks Tina Kelly, Sarah Callahan and Ann Marie Barletta also worked feverishly to keep the ball out of the Wilmington zone and keep the game close.

In the second half however, the Lowell onslaught was too much for Wilmington's defenders, as they allowed three more Lowell goals on breakaways. The Lowell "giants" just kept pounding the Wilmington zone until they struck paydirt.

Soccer tryouts

The Tewksbury Youth Soccer League (TYSL) will hold intramural division tryouts for ages eight through 13 (on January 1, 1990) at the Livingston Street soccer fields Saturday, October 21 at the following times: under 10, at 1 p.m.; under 12 at 2 p.m. and under 14, 3 p.m.

Players should attend one tryout unless they will be on the same team as last year. These tryouts are for rating purposes to balance teams, since all players will be placed on teams. Registration forms will be available at these tryouts. The fee is $25.00 Medical insurance and the child's Social Security number are required.

Winners by age division were: age eight, first Carl Giangregorio, second, Mike Warford, third, Tom Southmayd; age nine, first Sean Kerrigan, second Jamie Campbell, third, John Briand; age 10, first Lee Trimarchi, second, Bill Harrison, third Mike MacDonald; age 11, first Vinny Strow, second David DePasquale, third, Bill Holloway; age 12, first Dan Lutz, second Jack Warford, third Kristi Lyman; age 13, first Mike Alonardo, second Randy Johnson, third Josh Levesque; age 14, first Tom Aprile, second Jim Angilio, third Kevin MacArthur.

Congratulations to the trophy winners as well as all who competed.

Horribles parade

The Recreation Department invites Wilmington youngsters "of all ages" to participate in the 21st annual horribles parade. The 1989 parade of horribles will be held Tuesday evening the 31st. Participants will form next to the police station at 6:30 p.m. and begin marching by Church Street at 6:45 p.m. to the high school tennis courts, where special ribbons and treats for all will be available. Adults wishing to volunteer should call the Recreation office at 658-4270.

Discount dining books

Available now in the Recreation office are the Entertainment '90 Books and Greater Boston '90, a two book volume of money-saving discounts. If you like to save money and dine out, these books are for you. Both offer savings at numerous restaurants, fine and casual dining; theatre, sports events, family fun and more. Stop by and see these new editions and choose the book that is best for you between 8:30 a.m. and 4:30 p.m. Monday through Friday at the Recreation Dept. at the town hall.

Learn basketball

The Recreation Department is expanding its' basketball program to include six and seven year olds. Age is determined as of December 31, 1989.

The boys and girls will play on Saturdays in the Shawsheen Elementary gym. This instructional program will run for six weeks beginning January 13.

Lowered baskets will be used for the program.

This program is designed to introduce the children to the fundamentals of the game. Actual game play will also be included as part of the learning process.

Bill Oatis, a WRBL veteran coach, will be supervising the program.

Cost for the program including team shirt is $15.00. Sign up in the Rec office in town hall beginning Monday, October 23.

Basketball camp

The eighth annual Red Raiders Basketball School will be held October 28, November 4, 11 and 18 at Lowell High School Fieldhouse. These super Saturday clinics are open to any boy or girl in the Merrimack Valley area, ages nine through 18.

The morning clinics for boys start at eight o'clock, with registration at 7:30, and end at 11:45. The afternoon clinics begin at 12:15 with registration at 11:45 a.m .and finish at 4 p.m.

Cost for the camp is $75.00 For more information, call Coach Ryan at home (475-4654) or school (937-8981).

Joc talk

Dear Jock:

I am a 16-year-old junior in high school. I play halfback and I punt. My punting average is only 28 yards per punt, for 11 punts in four games. My punts get returned almost every time. My coach says, "keep kicking, you'll improve." How can I get more distance on my punts?

J.T. BHS

Dear J.T:

1. Be ready to kick. Stretch out your lower back and legs, especially your kicking leg. It only takes a few seconds to stretch out. If you are on the sidelines, practice your kicking motion.

2. Before receiving the snap for the punt, look over the field in front of you. If the receiving team has one returner, kick away from him. If your opponent has two punt returners, try kicking to their left, your right, but not out of bounds.

3. Hold the ball with both hands, the middle finger on each hand should be along the seam on the side of the ball, with the laces up. The ball should point slightly to the left for a right footed kicker.

4. Prior to the kick, hold the ball at waist level. Simply drop the ball onto your foot in your kicking motion. Don't throw it up to kick it.

5. At the finish of your kicking motion, your kicking leg should be parallel to the ground, and your toes should point to the goal posts, not up in the air. This is called foot extension. The more you can extend your foot, the more solid your foot will be for the kick.

From this point on, all improvements will be made by slight adjustments in the holding of the ball, moving it up or down, or tipping it one way or the other.

Outdoors column

Ever seen a wild deer? Thank the hunters!

by Bill Conlon

Every year around this time, those who hunt are forced to defend their sport against those who are opposed. Hunters are the best thing that ever happened to wild animals, but the flak and bickering never end.

I'm a hunter, and I'm proud of it. As one of many, I feel obligated to speak for those hunters who don't happen to write outdoors columns, but still find themselves forced to defend mankinds's oldest activity. And forget that joke about the other "oldest profession" in the world.

Every year, my brethren and I go into the woods and fields, in pursuit of game animals. Emphasis on that word game, as those are the species hunted, and they are well managed by a team of experts in every state. Never will a species of game animals be hunted to extinction. Never. Bag limits are set each year, based on the populations of each species, to keep hunters from over-harvesting.

So, the animals we hunt are treated as a renewable resource. There are more whitetail deer in Massachusetts today than there were 100 years ago, and that's a cold fact. There are also turkeys today, and there were none at all 100 years ago. Cold fact.

Who pays the wages of those game experts? Hunters do.

Money for game management is raised through sale of hunting and fishing licenses, and also through the sale of such things as duck stamps, archery and muzzleloader permits, bear permits, wild turkey permits, trapping permits, and the like. We pay dearly. How much do the anti-hunters pay?

Also, hunters and anglers imposed a voluntary tax upon themselves and their gear, giving rise to the Pitman-Robertson Act. Taxes are placed on the sale of all hunting and fishing equipment, and those funds are used to support game management and the purchase of habitat areas. Again, the taxes were voluntarily imposed. We pay gladly.

In addition to taxes, hunters pay in other ways. Just try to find a motel room in the Berkshires during the shotgun deer season, this year from Nov. 27 to Dec. 6. Better still, try today to book a room during that period for 1991! And good luck!

Motel owners in the western half of the state know that hunters will book every square inch of lodging during deer season. Add to that the meals, beverages, gasoline, clothing and souvenirs that will be bought as incidentals. Between the foliage and ski seasons, there are the hunters. In some portions of the Berkshires, the hunters are keeping people alive and well in an otherwise off season.

What about the killing? Isn't that all that hunters do -- go in the woods to kill?

Well, in a way. North American whitetail deer are fast, smart, clever and nearly invisible in their woods. Most hunters can claim a successful season if they just SEE a deer in the woods. It's not like a walk through a petting zoo, blasting everything that looks like a deer. Oh hardly. It's a full challenge just to see one. One.

Add to that the game-management tool of a bucks-only harvest, which means that a deer must have visible antlers before a shot is fired. One buck is able to "service" quite a few does, so the boys are hunted and the ladies are protected, for the good of the herd. So about half the deer we see are out of bounds for hunters.

Instead, a deer hunt is time spent in the woods, enjoying the scenery and the wildlife, but with ears and eyes on full alert for that one movement that means deer. Last season, just as an example, I spent five full days in the woods, starting before sunrise, breaking for lunch, then returning to hunt until sunset -- all without a single deer spotted. How many full days in the field did anti-hunters spent last year? Probably not many.

It may seem like a contradiction, but deer hunters love deer, and not just as walking targets. We love 'em and we'd never do anything to hurt them as a whole. Never.

Even if I do kill a deer, the damage to the herd is negligible at best. The New Hampshire department of fish and game, for an example, reports a state deer herd of 40,000 head for the past two years in a row, with an annual kill of just over 6,000 deer. That means more than 15 percent of the deer herd was harvested in each of the past two years, but the herd itself wasn't changed at all. Hunters kill deer without hurting them, in a manner of speaking. Again, careful game management does the trick.

However, if a bulldozer comes in and flattens a 40 acre tract of forest to build a new condo project, that land is forever denied to the deer, and they won't be back. I'm abused and sniped at for killing one deer, but the guy driving the bulldozer isn't bothered. That's not exactly fair, is it?

And the ancient sport of hunting has yet another enemy -- the "slob" hunter. These dangerous idiots are the ones who drink, litter, shoot up signs and livestock, start fires and generally give all hunters a bad rep. Because of them, thousands of acres of prime hunting land are posted "no trespassing" and everyone is hurt. Hell, if I owned a farm in the Berkshires and saw such an assault on my property, I'd be sorely tempted to post my land, too. If you know a slob hunter, it's your duty to report him to the authorities, or at the very least refuse to go hunting with him ever again. It doesn't matter if he's your dad, your brother or your very best friend. If he's a jerk, tell him, then dump him -- today!

So there you have it.

We as hunters are scorned as being "Bambi killers," but we provide the money and interest that keeps the deer herd prosperous.

We spend on lodging, food and such during deer season, and we pay voluntary taxes, to boot.

We hunt deer without harming the herd, and take heat, while the bull-dozers wipe out entire habitats with scarcely a peep of protest.

We even try to cull out the fools from our number, if we possibly can, for everyone's benefit.

But no matter how loud the angry protests may get, we'll be back in the forest again this autumn, for the hunt, as we've been doing since the dawn of time. And without apology.

Tewksbury Rod & Gun Club has a .22 caliber pistol silhouette shoot in the works for October 22, 1-4 p.m. Entry fee is $5 and the public is invited to the Chandler Street club.

Also being planned by the club is a Turkey Shoot, probably for Nov. 5, 1-4 p.m., with details forthcoming.

Unfortunately, due to a communications breakdown on the part of this author, no mention was made in this space of the recent Tewksbury Rod & Gun 3-D archery shoot (with 123 archers entered!) a centerfire rifle shoot held Oct. 8 or a public sighting-in day held Oct. 15. But the communication lines have now been reopened and TR&G stuff will be showing up here more often. Sorry about the lapse!

Speaking of TR&G, club members George Rost, Tippy Burgess, Steve Stella and John Wickson recently completed a state-run course in map and compass navigation, and George said that a class in map and compass might be offered soon. How soon?

Rumor has it that a deer was seen crossing Main Street, Wilmington, by Century 21 Starwood last week. That's a pretty densely settled area, but deer are being forced to live closer to people these days. Still ...

The 1990 incarnation of the Old Farmer's Almanac (published every year since 1792) reports that the best fishing times are one hour prior and one hour after the high tide; and the same for low tide. Inland anglers should use the chart for the times when the moon is due south, but as we're so close to the sea we can use high and low tides. Hmm. Have to check that out. The Almanac also has a cute piece on the catching of world record fish.

Unfair World Dept.: Bub Manley of Tewksbury bought the hunting licenses for himself and his boys, all at once, so the last digits were 1, 2 and 3. When the doe permits were drawn for the district where Bub hunts, the last digits picked were 1 and 3. Both the boys got their doe permits, but poor Bub missed out by purchasing the middle of the three licenses. Now is that fair?

New life with In Vitro Fertilization

"I feel like a wounded soldier that has lost many battles - but I will win the war."

So wrote 40-year-old Joanne Lemaire last winter of her 13-year struggle to conceive a child. The letter to a trusted nurse, Nancy Harrington, showed that even in despair she had not lost her faith.

"Will I ever have this child that I want so much? I guess God has decided otherwise for me now."

Today, Joanne Lemaire and her husband, Evangelos, are parents of tiny Maria Katerina, a "test tube" baby conceived during the very next cycle after the letter to Nancy Harrington. Maria is the result of Mrs. Lemaire's eleventh in vitro fertilization (IVF) attempt in six years.

Her doctor, Vito R.S. Cardone, of New England Memorial Hospital Fertility Center in Stoneham, and his team of infertility specialists were thrilled by the Lemaire birth.

"We have performed the IVF procedure hundreds of times, but rarely on a woman of such iron will," said Dr. Cardone. "Joanne is a very courageous and persevering woman. Most couples would have given up long ago."

Joanne Lemaire, however, considers her odyssey only common sense, and a lesson for many couples who may have lost faith that they can conceive.

"Many relatives and close friends could not understand how we could go through still another IVF cycle. It was not a hardship for me because I knew that the odds of conception improved with each attempt."

Dr. Cardone, who has been named a Godfather to Maria Katerina, confirms Mrs. Lemaire's statistics. "This is not a typical case of infertility at all," he said, "It was unusual. But as long as they had the will, medically there was a way."

Joanne Lemaire spent the last six months of her pregnancy in Montreal's Lakeshore General Hospital to prevent another in a series of miscarriages that had plagued her since 1983. Her long confinement may have been the easiest step in her journey through IVF clinics in three countries.

The Canadian couple first tried IVF at Borne Hall in Cambridge, England, with Doctors Steptoe and Edwards, the physicians responsible for the world's first test-tube baby. The procedure was necessary because ectopic pregnancies in 1976 and 1978 had cost Mrs. Lemaire her fallopian tubes.

After three trips to England and five unsuccessful IVF attempts, Mrs. Lemaire made one additional attempt at a clinic in Quebec City. She then heard of Dr. Cardone's center in Montreal. Her first IVF attempt with Dr. Cardone occurred in 1987 followed by another; the last three IVF cycles were completed after Cardone moved his practice to Massachusetts.

"I know Joanne was often very discouraged about her experience," recalls Dr. Cardone. "I would never have encouraged her had it been hopeless."

As for Joanne Lemaire, she knew she would be back despite 13 years of effort.

What a magnificent Indian Summer weekend we had. It was also a magnificent weekend for two of our dear friends, Gary and Cheryl. Except for one, er, minor incident which we'll get around to telling you about.

You may remember Gary and Cheryl; they were the young couple we told you about who went on a weekend getaway recently, and left his mother in charge of their dog and fish tank. The dog nearly froze to death when Gary's mother forgot to shut off the air conditioner, and Gary returned home to discover five neat little piles of fish food on top of the fish tank. His mother had forgotten to remove the top to the tank, and since she's so short, she never realized what she had done.

This past weekend another interesting series of events took place in Gary and Cheryl's household. Only this time it wasn't Gary's mother who was to blame for what went wrong. It was - you guessed it - Gary himself who was to blame.

The chain of events started innocently enough: Gary and Cheryl decided to take advantage of the nice weather and use their electric gas grill one more time.

"I went to the store and bought a chicken," Cheryl told us. "I brought it home and stuffed it. Then I prepared all the fixings to go with it - mashed potatoes with gravy, fresh carrots, a salad. I

Retired Men's Club holds meeting

At the regular meeting of the Wakefield Retried Men's Club on September 27 in the First Congregational church George Esper, a retired reporter for the Associated Press, related some of his experiences and observations in Vietnam during and after the war there. He said there is no good evidence that there are live U.S. soldiers now in Vietnam and that there are very few authentic remains of soldiers now being found there. He said he went back in January of this year with some U.S. soldiers who had fought there. They created goodwill by removing mines they had planted there years ago and by bringing gifts to Vietnam soldiers in hospitals which all helped to create a spirit of reconciliation.

He felt that the U.S. will open an Embassy there soon because relations have improved and the country is in such a poor economic state it badly needs U.S. technology and trade. He felt that Vietnam is pulling away from communism.

One hundred eighty five men were in attendance. First time visitors were John Drinkwater, Reading; Frederic Goldie,

Community Concerts features John Gary

John Gary, well-known popular singer from TV fame, will appear at the Stoneham High School, 149 Franklin St., at 8:15 p.m. on Tuesday, October 24 as the first artist in the coming 1989-90 concert season of the Greater Stoneham Community Concert Association.

The series includes the Linden Woodwind Quintet, Wednesday, November 15, The Beacon Brass Quintet on Sunday, March 25, 1990, at 3 p.m. and Ray Smith's Paramount Jazz Band on Monday, April 23, 1990. All the concerts will be at 8:15 p.m. at the Stoneham High School, unless otherwise noted.

Currently John Gary has twenty-four albums to his credit. He has performed extensively in concerts, at night clubs, on television, in the theatre and in movies. Once described by Jim Bishop as having "the cherubic expression of an unfrocked altar boy," Mr. Gary has become a mature, polished performer. Only his voice remains unchanged.

JOHN GARY

He was chosen as the most outstanding vocalist of the ten years of touring Big Band shows, and was therefore specially invited to return and join the tenth anniversary tour of The Big Band Festival in the spring of 1990. He has performed at the country's finest night clubs, including The Coconut Grove, the Ambassador Hotel, The Persian Room at the Plaza Hotel in New York, The Venetian Room at the famous Fairmont Hotels in San Francisco and Dallas, and the legendary Blue Room at the Roosevelt/Fairmont Hotel in New Orleans.

Mr. Gary has been a guest star on numerous TV shows, both past and present, including those of Carol Burnett, Ed Sullivan, the Bell Telephone Hour, Johnny Carson and David Frost. His own syndicated 90-minute program, The John Gary Show, has been shown in almost every major market in the United States, and his summer replacement show for Danny Kaye on CBS has become TV legend.

He was born in Watertown, New York. His career began when, as a nine-year-old boy soprano, he won a three-year scholarship at the renowned Cathedral of St. John the Divine in New York City. At 11 years of age, he sang as often as he could at the now-famous Stage Door Canteen and won two pins of Distinction from The American Theatre Wing.

John Gary is an inventor, sculptor, songwriter, poet and an outstanding archer and tennis player, His book "A Fragment of Time" has been a consistent best-seller for Briarwood Publishing Co., Dallas.

Mr. Gary now makes his home in the Dallas suburb of Richardson, Texas, where his offices are also headquarterd. His wife's name is Lee and they have five beautiful children: Rick, Tracy, Paul, Kris and Jason - as well as four dogs and one horse.

For information on the series please call: Mrs. Robert Leavitt, 944-5262; Mrs. Ernest Degel, 944-5632; Mrs. Donald Hanson, 438-0701; Mrs. Zussman Freeman, 438-0835; Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Hall, 933-2972; Mrs. John Cronin, 944-2913 or Mrs. Walter Johnson, 438-4726.

Wakefield and Angelo Palino, Wilmington. Second time visitors were Ted Quinn, Wakefield and Donald Thistle, Malden. Gregory Hall of Reading came for the third time and was inducted into membership with a rousing song by all the men led by Tom Coughlin who also led the happy birthday song when John Vernon, Chairman of Birthdays, called the eight members who had birthdays during the past month up front to celebrate.

John Griffin, Chairman of Visitation, read names of those ill at home or in hospitals or nursing homes, and he called for a moment of silence for the two members who has passed away since last meeting.

Peter Calori, Chairman of Reception and membership Committee, and his helpers greeted members and passed out name tags.

Chairman William Behnke and his Hospitality Committee served the coffee and doughnuts.

President Andy McHugh announced that the programs for next meeting would be Captain Parr of the Wakefield Fire Department speaking on Fire Prevention and he announced that the annual Ladies Day Luncheon would be held on October 25 in the Church.

About the towns

By PHYLLIS NISSEN

NORTH READING - In spite of - or because of - two previous Prop. 2 1

2 overrides, North Reading voters recently rejected a third by a vote of 1,077 to 638.

Selectmen had called for the special election to try to raise $200,000 above that allowed by the 2 1

2 tax cap. Previous overrides were used to renovate the town's high school, and former town hall for use as a library.

Doom and gloom: Selectmen warned that this failure could mean the layoff of eight of 22 town hall employees, the axing of the fire department's ambulance service, the cutting of police patrols - as well as the demise of street sweeping and the shutting off of half the town's street lights."

TEWKSBURY - Dr. Peter N. Gorlin is the director of the new Tewksbury Walk-In Medical Center, open seven days a week, adjacent to the Tew-Mac Airport. Gorlin is also medical director of the Billerica, Chelmsford and Lowell Walk-In Centers as well as an emergency room physician at St. John's Hospital in Lowell.

According to Gorlin, every patient who visits these centers will be seen by a physician, and hospitalizations will be accomplished promptly and with individual attention.

Other founders of the Tewksbury center are Drs. Gerald Bousquet, Gary DeLong, Charles Rappaport and Steven Schenker. At the same Main St. location are the new offices of Mass. Eye Associates and Therafit-Tewksbury Physical Therapy.

Gorlin's special credits include studies of health care delivery in New Guinea in conjunction with the late Dr. Margaret Mead.

WINCHESTER - The Winchester Community Use of Schools Open Gym Program has begun its 16th season. It is open to all residents who want to keep fit, exercise for health and enjoyment, meet new townspeople, get more for their tax dollars - or have fun.

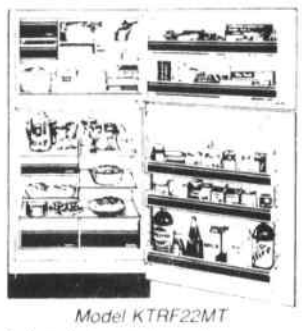

The new admission fee is $2 for Winchester residents and $4 for non-residents.

If you're pregnant or planning to be soon, you've got some important decisions to make. We'd like to help you with one of the biggest: where you want to have your baby.
What should you look for? A place that's involved in your pregnancy well before it's time to go to the hospital, with classes on things like health, nutrition, helping your other children cope with the new baby, fitness and exercise, and childbirth itself. A professional staff that's warm and friendly. State-of-the-art technology and procedures. An 'LDRP' room decorated so you feel you're at home, not in a hospital, where you can stay for the whole time you're here, from labor to being discharged. Awareness of the needs of the rest of your family. And most important, the attitude that you and your baby deserve the best possible care.
So find out about Great Beginnings, the maternity center at Malden Hospital, by calling 397-6551. We make choosing the hospital the easy part.

even had the table set just perfectly."

Gary was put in charge of watching the chicken as it cooked on the gas grill. "I didn't mind," he said. "I was putting shingles on the roof over our patio, so I was right there anyway."

Cheryl had to take their five year old son to the doctor's. After carefully administering to the chores in the kitchen and following thirty minutes of keeping a watchful eye on the chicken, she and their little boy left the house. "I told Gary that I wasn't going to be there, so keep an eye on the chicken," she related. "I wasn't going to be gone long, but I didn't want anything to go wrong with the chicken."

Gary assured Cheryl that the chicken was in good hands and shooed her on her way. "I climbed up the ladder and started banging away at the shingles," Gary said. "I wasn't up on the roof for more than five minutes when I heard the gas grill make this ungodly noise."

Gary climbed down the ladder and checked out the problem. "The chicken had somehow slipped from one end of the skewer and it wasn't turning properly," he indicated. "So I fixed the chicken, and went back up on the roof to finish working on the shingles."

Another few minutes passed, and once again that same ungodly noise erupted from inside the gas grill. "I was starting to get ticked off now," Gary recalled. "I had to climb down the ladder again and fix the chicken a second time. The rotisserie was going around, but the chicken wasn't moving. It was cooking on just one side. The rotisserie kept making this horrible noise because it was struggling to get the chicken to move, but it wasn't going around."

Once again Gary properly reattached the chicken to the skewer, and returned to his work on the roof. It just wasn't meant to be for Gary to get those shingles nailed down that afternoon, because for the third time that same retched sound came from inside the gas grill.

Gary was about to climb back down the ladder for the third time when suddenly his mother appeared on the patio. She looked up at Gary and shook her head slowly. "I asked her what's the matter," Gary said. "She made some remark about me being just like my father. I think she said it took him forever to get something around the house finished, too. I was in no mood to hear about it. All I wanted to do was smash that darn chicken and the gas grill."

Gary opened the gas grill and sure enough there was the chicken, one side beginning to overcook, suspended motionlessly over the heat. The rotisserie was still making that nasty, squeally noise as it struggled to rotate the chicken.

"I lost it," Gary said. "We have a six foot fence in our backyard. I picked up the gas grill - the chicken still stuck on the rotisserie - and attempted to throw it over the fence, into my neighbor's backyard."

The gas grill failed to clear the top of the fence, and it came crashing back down onto Gary's lawn. "I was hoping that darn chicken would have at least made it over the fence. It would have landed in my neighbor's garden. he would never have known the difference."

Gary stormed back up the ladder, this time determined to finish nailing the new shingles to the patio roof. "On the way up I said to my mother, 'Ma, don't you say a word.' She didn't. She just shook her head again and went back into the house."

As Gary nailed away at the shingles, he hap-hazardly caught a glimpse of his dog gnawing away at the chicken, which was still, for the most part, attached to the rotisserie. The grill was resting on its side, and the dog, a German Shepherd, was having no difficulty getting at the best part of the chicken.

"That's when I decided I'd better do something before Cheryl got home," he said. "I climbed back down the ladder again and went over to the grill, picked it up off the ground and reattached what was left of the chicken to the rotisserie. Jeez, it didn't look too good. There were teeth marks every where and the thing was covered with grass."

Gary contemplated what to do. "I decided to go out and get us some Chinese food," he told us.

While he was gone Cheryl and their son returned home. "I couldn't believe my eyes when I went out in the back yard and saw the chicken," Cheryl remarked. "It was a mess! The dog had chewed it all up and pieces of grass were sticking out all over it. There was no sign of Gary, but I figured he didn't do a very good job of watching the chicken while I was gone. I wanted to cry, I'd put so much effort into that dinner, with the mashed potatoes and gravy and carrots and salad, not to mention the table."

Shortly afterwards Gary got home. His arms were full of bags brimful of Chinese food. "If looks could kill, I would have been dead right there," Gary Said. "They ended up eating mashed potatoes with gravy, carrots and salad and no chicken. I ate the Chinese food."

"I really let him have it," Cheryl said. By this time, she was laughing over the whole matter. "When I was through, he came up to me, and with a sad puppy-face, he held out his hands and told me that he burned his fingers. I could have killed him, all right!"

Well, so much for enjoying a fine Indian Summer weekend. "The worst part of all," said Gary, "I never did finish putting up those shingles."

NORTHERN ESSEX COMMUNITY COLLEGE

Craig Arsenault of Haverhill did – so can you!

Craig Arsenault graduated from Whittier Regional Vocational School with a carpentry major and decided that, if he wanted to do more than heavy labor, he'd better think about college. He decided to take a chance at Northern Essex: it was close by and not too expensive.

"My first day in class (I enrolled in a one-year program in Civil Technology), the instructor wrote some job opportunities on the blackboard," Craig says. "I applied for one of the jobs, got it, and have spent the last two years learning at Northern Essex, bringing what I learned to the job, learning on the job, and applying that knowledge to my NECC classes."

Craig completed the requirements for his Civil Technology certificate in 1988, but instead of graduating, he transferred to the associate degree program in Engineering Science. "I plan eventually to go on to the University of Lowell," Craig says. "I found out at Northern Essex that I like school and can stick with it."

Craig is still working at Riverside Engineering Services in Haverhill, the job he got through NECC. "Northern Essex opened up a whole new direction for me," he says. "I'm concentrating now on completing my education and, at the same time, doing my job well. It's a real challenge, but well worth it."

CALENDAR OF EVENTS

–A Listing of Interesting Events and Happenings –

FIRST AID CERTIFICATE COURSE

Winchester Hospital is offering an eight-hour Standard First Aid Course November 9 and 16 from 6 to 10 p.m. at the Woburn YMCA.

The training presented in this course will prepare participants to assist people who are in potential death and disabling situations.

Lifesaving emergency medical techniques will include CPR, rescue breathing, chokesaving, control of severe bleeding, first aid for broken bones, proper treatment for poison and burn victims, and the transportation of the injured.

The course fee is $40. Enrollment is limited. Students completing the course satisfactorily will receive a three year certificate in Standard First Aid and a one year certificate in adult CPR from the American Red Cross.

For registration and further information, contact the hospital's Education Department at (617) 729-9000, Ext. 3010.

LITERACY ACTIVITIES FOR ELEMENTARY AGES

A one-day seminar on literacy activities for elementary school pupils will be held at the Colonial Hilton in Wakefield, Saturday, October 21. "Creating Rainbows: Integrating Whole Language Strategies in Elementary Classrooms" is sponsored by the American Institute for Creative Education.

The seminar will be conducted by John Poeton, an internationally recognized reading consultant and specialist, with Nancy Brooks and Susan Spears, teachers who are currently using the Whole Language approach in their classrooms. The focus will be on activities to increase a student's ability to read, write, speak and listen.

For registration information contact the American Institute for Creative Education at 23 University Dr., Augusta, Maine 04330 or call 1-800-448-5343.

The Adventurous Gardener Symposium - Add some excitement to your garden next year by gaining ideas at this afternoon symposium on unique and unusual plants. November 4, 1:30 to 4:30 p.m. $40 members, $48 non-members. Location: Pine Manor College, Brookline.

NEEDLEWORK EXHIBIT IN READING

The Merrimack Valley Chapter of the Embroiderers Guild of America will hold a Needlework Exhibit in honor of the 10th Anniversary of the chapter.

It will be held at the Parker Tavern, 103 Washington St., Reading on October 14 and 15 from 10 to 4. Free admission and refreshments.

EVENING TAX, REAL ESTATE WORKSHOPS

Several workshops on real estate and taxation are among the evening course offerings for adults at Minuteman Tech in Lexington this October.

On Monday, October 23, from 7 to 9 p.m., Ms. Phyllis Aaronson will conduct a workshop on Real Estate for the Small Investor. Participants will learn how to hedge against inflation, increase capital, produce income and reduce taxes through real estate investment. Topics will include REIT's, single and multi-family units, bargain hunting, financing, tenant selection, maintenance costs, value creation and leverage.

Local CPA Joan Chasan will conduct a workshop on Tax Savings for Small Business Owners on Thursday, October 19 from 7 to 9 p.m. Topics will include record keeping, business use of the home and automobile, travel, education expenses, depreciation and Keogh accounts.

On Thursday, October 26, Ms. Chasan will conduct a workshop on Tax Savings for Rental Property Owners. Topics will include common deductions, depreciation, repairs vs. improvements, overnight travel and vacation home rental.

Tuition for each real estate workshop is $10, while the fee for each tax workshop is $5. For further information, or to register, contact Minuteman's Community Education Office at (617) 861-7150.

OPEN OBSERVATORY NIGHTS AT B.U.

The Boston University Astronomy Department sponsors Open Observatory Night every Wednesday from 8:30 to 9:30 p.m. in October and from 8 to 9 p.m. November 1 through December 20, weather permitting. Members of the University's Astronomy Department will identify astronomical highlights which individuals view through telescopes.

This fall's stellar line-up includes the Pleiades or "seven sisters"; the Hyades, an open star cluster in the constellation Taurus; the Andromeda galaxy, a twin of our own Milky Way; and Pegasus, "the winged horse." Also of interest are the rising moon on November 15, the full moon on December 13 and a clear view of Saturn, Venus and Jupiter.

Open Observatory Nights are free and open to the public and take place on the fifth floor of the College of Liberal Arts, 725 Commonwealth Ave. For recorded information, call (617) 353-2360 after 5:30 p.m.

MDC ANNOUNCES 5K RUN AT LYNN/NAHANT

A CPR recertification course will be held November 1 from 6 to 10 p.m. also in the Winchester Hospital's Education Conference Room. The cost of the program is $25.

For additional information and registration, call the hospital's Education Department at (617) 729-9009, Ext. 3010.

School notes

by phyllis nissen

---New this year in Winchester is the Winchester Sports Foundation, begun by parents and sports fans with the following goals in mind: preserving and protecting the level of Winchester High sports programs; helping to meet the costs of athletic programs and individual expenses; giving financial support to introduce new sports programs; making sports programs accessible to all classes and ensuring the opportunity for maximum participation.

Officers are Lucille Bourque, president; Rebecca Murphy, vice-president; Marty Fuller, secretary; and Kevin Keefe, treasurer.

---Following a recommendation by Superintendent of Schools Dr. William Hoyt, the Stoneham School Committee has voted to modify the secretarial positions at the high and middle schools where each secretary will now work 10, rather than 12, months a year.

---Designated liaisons are almost the rule for the North Reading School Committee which is encouraging each school PTO to designate an official spokesperson to attend committee meetings.

The so far unofficial policy is designed to distinguish between the people who say they are speaking for a particular school and the people who have been officially designated to do so.

---The Wilmington Public Schools have been awarded an $11,267 grant from the Governor's Alliance Against Drugs to expand drug and alcohol education as part of the Drug-Free Schools Act. The grant represents the third year of the program's three-year funding cycle.

---Woburn is still wrestling with a proposed human growth and development curriculum which has been sparking comments and questions at School Committee meetings for some time now. The curriculum under consideration for grades K-12 would provide courses in physical, mental and social health.

At this point, middle school students are not taught about contraceptive devices but are encouraged to practice abstinence. High school students review human anatomy with the emphasis of a twice weekly healthy class on the consequences of actions.

According to Joseph Maltecea, health teacher and boy's track and field coach, parents must involve themselves more deeply in teaching responsible sexual behavior.

Parents should be aware that between 60 and 70 percent of high school seniors are sexually active and that a recent study of 20,000 college students revealed that by 1991, AIDS will be the number one killer among men aged 20 to 21.

"These kids are being infected in high school," says Maltecea.

According to the Woburn Daily Times, the Woburn schools do not teach sex education at any grade level. When a sex ed' program was proposed in the mid-'70's, it was strongly opposed by many parents.

FILM SALUTE TO THE TURN OF THE CENTURY

A film salute to the turn of the century continues this fall at the Museum of Our National Heritage, Lexington, with four films in conjunction with the current exhibit, Turn of the Century, on view through February 25, 1990. All films are Sundays at 2 p.m. and are free and open to the public. Museum admission and parking are also free. For more information, call the museum at (617) 861-6559.

Films are Cheaper by the Dozen (1950) with Clifton Webb and Myrna Loy in a comedy about a turn-of-the-century efficiency expert; The Strawberry Blonde (1941) starring James Cagney, Olivia de Havilland and Rita Hayworth in an entertaining look at romance at the turn-of-the-century; Pollyanna (1960) starring Hayley Mills in her Oscar-winning role as a turn-of-the-century girl; and Edison, the Man (1940), the classic Hollywood biography with Spencer Tracy as the turn-of-the-century scientist. All films except Pollyanna will be introduced by museum education director Robert MacKay.

The film schedule is: Sunday, October 22 - Cheaper by the Dozen (85 mins.); Sunday, October 29 - The Strawberry Blond (97 mins.); Sunday, November 26 - Pollyanna (134 mins.); and Sunday, December 10 - Edison, the Man (107 mins.).

Woodchips

By ANTHONY MANCONI

Many people think that our judicial system in America is slow, lenient and dilatory. Well, thank God that it is, because in many countries in the world people are charged, tried and convicted all in the same day. It was that way in the Wild Western Frontier Days, when my great, great grand uncle was accused of stealing a horse. He received a "suspended" sentence. He was to be hanged the next day. He was led to the gallows early at the break of dawn and lo and behold it was discovered that someone had stolen the rope during the night. Uncle Dinny fell to his knees and, with hands folded and eyes upraised, exclaimed in prayer, "Glory be for this miracle, no noose is good noose!"

My Aunt Nora is a vicious, dangerous sport fan. She yells, rants and raves at many sporting events. She is a member of the Bruins Gallery Gods at Boston Garden. She doesn't miss many games even when she's staying at her daughter's home in New Hampshire. She took the train to Boston one afternoon when it suddenly jolted and then stopped abruptly almost throwing some of the passengers out of their seats. The conductor went through the cars, trying to calm everyone explaining that the train had just hit a cow. "Oh dear!" my Aunt Nora exclaimed, "Was it on the tracks?" An exasperated conductor looked at my Aunt and said, "No ma'am, we had to chase the cow into a barn!"

At a wrestling match at the Garden one night, she ran down to ringside and poked one of the wrestlers that she didn't like with her umbrella. He jumped out of the ring, picked my Aunt up, put her on his shoulders and paraded around the ring. He then put her down gently and she went off, yelling and screaming. Well folks, do you think that cured her - Nope - two days later at Fenway Park she shouted to the plate umpire, "Get a seeing eye dog, you bum!" I'll tell you more later about her Patriot's Football, "Cheers." I don't know how I'll do it because some of them are questionable in a family newspaper - but I'll try.

I remember when an East Boston ferry boat was about five feet from the dock. I took a running jump and landed on by backside. Two attendants picked me up and said, "Why the heck did you do that? We would have tied up in about two minutes." Folks, God will not look us over for the medals we have won or look at the diplomas on the wall for the degrees that we have earned. He will look for the "scars" we received as workers in His vineyard.

I was walking along the shore line at Revere Beach one morning at low tide. I would pick up a starfish as I walked along and then toss it into the water. A man who was watching, stopped me and said, "I can see what you are doing - but - tell me, what good is it? There must be hundreds of starfish from here to the Pines, you'll never be able to save all of them, so what good is what you're doing?" "It's doing this one a lot of good," I said as I tossed a starfish I had in my hand into the water, hopefully to live and swim again in freedom.

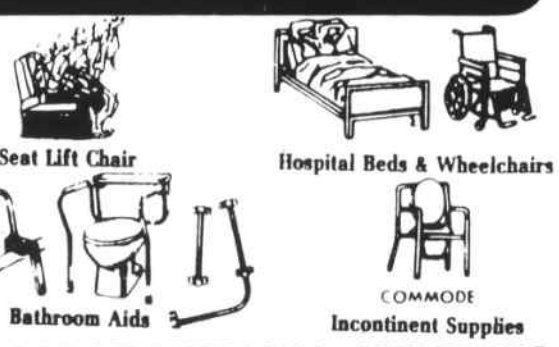

Folks, just because we can't help every single soul in this world, it doesn't mean we shouldn't try. Doc Kagan has a sign that tells it all. It says, "What wisdom is greater than kindness?" Why is it that people who snore always fall asleep first? Kathy had her photograph taken and was extremely disappointed. "I can't understand it," she said. "The last time you took a picture of me, I came out simply grand." The photographer smiled and tried to explain saying, "Kathy, you must remember that the last time I took your picture, "I" was ten years younger." I can explain it even better. Kathy remembers the Big Dipper when it was just a drinking cup.

English teachers may omit reading this chip if they wish. On a recent trip to New York to visit my cousin, I said to a cabby, "Take me to 333 3rd Avenue, please." In pure Brooklynese he said, "Do youse mean tree hunert and thoity-tree Thoid Avenue?" Then he looked at me and added, "Boy, do youse guys from Boston moider the mudder tung." Gee, if I had my tape recorder, I would have sent a tape of this Shakespearing actor's picturesque talk to Miss Sullivan, my former English teacher who flunked me in high school. Anyway, I gave this taxi driver a parting shot saying, "Do you hear that, 'Boid Choiping?' They sound the same in 'Bawston!'"

Personality winners: Hilda Abreu, Peter Sullivan, Kristina Tyminski, Eleanor Davis, Meghan McCormick, Megan Huston, Catherine Shaughnessy, Mary Gillis, Carol A. Bradley, Catherine Sullivan, Julia C. Williams, all of Woburn; Kenny Binding, Bill Colella, Marilyn Fleming, Ann Foley and Florence Gosslyn, R.N., all of Winchester: William Phelan, Dan Cashman, Larry Monaghan, Ernie McLellan, Mike Uva, Joseph Croce and Bob Brennan, all of Wakefield; Basil and Mary Weatherbee (Woodchips congratulates you on your 64th wedding anniversary), Lisa Minervini, Karen M. Inman, Norma and Tom O'Conner, Lar Fredrick Neilson, all of Wilmington.

Also, Mary Correia, Peggy Castignetti, Else Magnusson, Julie Orio and Maureen McGurn, all of Tewksbury; Joseph F. Dalton, Susan Rubbico, Jimmy Geary, Carmine Mastrogiovanni CPA, Peter Aloisi and Guy Festa, all of Lynnfield; Didi Chin, Donald James Comier, Kevin Guarnotta, Paul O'Neill and Jonathan Edwards, all of Reading; Marianne Laiosa, Gerry McCarthy, Jack Flood, Joseph and Josephine Madden (Happy 50th wedding anniversary), Al Duff, Joanne Daniels and Rose Cleveland, all of Stoneham; Heidi Conrad, Brenda McDonough, Linda Fiori, Sherri Moda, Nancy Geljookian, Ron White, Shannon Nolan and Stephen Daly, all of North Reading; Tina Braceland, Fr. John Crispo, Fr. Robert Doherty, William Flaherty and Nicole Higden, all of Burlington.

RUSH TICKETS FOR BOSTON SYMPHONY

The Boston Symphony Orchestra is pleased to announce that, for the first time, a limited number of Rush Tickets will be available for its Tuesday-evening subscription concerts. These tickets are in addition to the Rush-Tickets available for each Friday-afternoon and Saturday-evening BSO subscription performance. Rush Tickets are sold at $6 each, one to a customer, at the Symphony Hall West Entrance beginning at 9 a.m. on Fridays and 5 p.m. on Saturdays and Tuesdays. The Boston Symphony Orchestra's Rush Ticket policy is a tradition that dates back to the orchestra's first performances in Symphony Hall, during the late 1800's.

BRENDAN BEHAN'S "THE HOSTAGE" SLATED FOR SIX WEEK GSC RUN

Set in a disreputable Dublin lodging house, Brendan Behan's "The Hostage" is a profound and brilliantly witty play with music. This rare mixture of political insight, human destiny and bawdy fun opens at the Gloucester Stage Company on Friday, October 27 and runs Wednesdays through Sundays until December 3. Performances are at 8 p.m. on Wednesday, Thursday, Friday and Saturday and 5 p.m. on Sunday. The Hostage has been acclaimed worldwide.

The London times wrote, "A masterpiece! The Hostage shouts, sings, thunders and stamps with life." Scheduled as the GSC's Community Project, "The Hostage" will be cast locally with non-union performers. "The Hostage" runs from October 27 through December 3 at the GSC's Performance Space, The Gorton Theatre, 267 East Main St., Gloucester.

Tickets are $12 on Wednesday and Thursday, $15 on Friday, $16.50 on Saturday and $13 on Sunday. For further information and reservations, please call the GSC office at (508) 281-4099.

HARRY CONNICK JR'S BIG BAND AT BERKLEE CENTER

Harry Connick, Jr., considered by many the hottest act in the music business today, debuts his "When Harry Met...Harry & Sally" Tour at Boston's Berklee Performance Center for one night only, Friday, November 10 at 7:30 p.m. This is the premiere of a world tour that features Connick along with Marc Shaimin and his 30-piece orchestra; the singer-pianist's first tour with a big band in his career.

Connick's third album on Columbia, the soundtrack for "When Harry Met Sally..." Rob Reiner's hit comedy of love in the 80's features the 21-year-old performing classics of American popular song. From the film's opening and closing theme, "It Had to be You" to standards by Gershwin, Rodgers & Hart and Ellington, "When Harry Met Sally..." is reintroducing a new generation to some of the greatest songs ever written. "It Had To Be You" is also one of the most popular videos on VH-1 (MTV for the 'thirtysomething generation).

The New York Times says Harry "exudes a brash, fresh-faced charisma that could carry him into extra-musical realms of showbusiness, for he is a natural entertainer as well as a fine musician."

"When Harry Met...Harry & Sally" featuring Harry Connick, Jr. and Marc Shaimin and His 30-piece Orchestra, at the Berklee Performance Center, Friday November 10 at 7:30 p.m. Tickets are $19 and $22, all seats reserved, on sale now at Ticketmaster outlets, the Berklee Box Office or charge by phone at (617) 787-8000. The Berklee is located at the corner of Boylston Street and Massachusetts Avenue in Boston.

THE 1988 PULITZER PRIZE WINNING COMEDY, "DRIVING MISS DAISY" starring Julie Harris and Brock Peters, returns to Boston's elegant Colonial Theatre Tuesday, October 24 through Sunday, October 29. "DRIVING MISS DAISY" RETURNS

Julie Harris and Brock Peters return to the Colonial Theatre from October 24 through 29 in Alfred Uhry's Pulitzer Prize-winning comedy, "Driving Miss Daisy." "Daisy" was presented at the Colonial last November and was overwhelmingly praised by critics and audiences alike.

The comedy, an international hit playing worldwide, portrays the relationship between Daisy, a Southern lady, and Hoke, her chauffeur. Their relationship spans 25 years and moves from reluctant tolerance to deep friendship. Stephen Root is also returning as Daisy's loving and overprotective son.

The performance and price schedule is as follows: Tuesday through Saturday at 8 p.m., Saturday at 2 p.m., and Sunday at 3 p.m., $37.50, $32.50 and $27.50; Thursday matinee at 2 p.m., $35, $30 and $25. "Daisy" continues through Sunday, October 29 only.

For ticket information, call or write the Colonial Theatre, 106 Boylston Street, Boston, 02116, (617) 426-9366. Also at Ticketron: (617) 720-3480.

"MEDIEVAL FEAST NIGHT" AT HAMMOND CASTLE

Hammond Castle Museum, 80 Hesperus Ave., Gloucester announced that the Annual Medieval Feast Night is scheduled for Saturday, November 11 at 7:30 p.m.

This year Merlin, the World's Oldest Practicing Magician, will host the gala event. The Grand Medieval Dinner is a sumptuous, eight-course meal, including thick lentil soup, roasted potatoes and vegetables and the Famous Roast Suckling Pig; just to mention a few of the courses that are being prepared by Lord Roger Griffiths, The Kingdom's Royal Chef.

The evening's entertainment will include a roving juggler and of course the magic of Merlin, performing legendary illusions from ancient and medieval times.

Merlin is no stranger here in the Kingdom of Hammondonia, having performed his illusions during Medieval Festivals and this years incredible "Castles are Magic" Day.

Reservations are required and may be made by calling the Castle at (508) 283-7673. Tickets are only $45 per person and guests are welcome to dress in Period Costumes befitting any Lord or Lady.

Merlin looks forward to taking you back into Medieval History on Saturday, November 11.

GABRIEL GHOST IN CONCORD

Act/Tunes Youth Theatre opens its 15th season of family entertainment with a spine-tingling, bone-tickling Halloween production "Gabriel Ghost," a musical spoof written by Peggy Traktman, Sue Lawless and Phil Gilbert. The production is directed by Kay DeFord with choreography by Marilyn Abbott, music direction by Miriam Raiken-Kolb and costume design by Jeanne Ferland.

The cast of Winsome Witches and Gallivanting Ghosts are nine teenagers from Concord, Acton and Lincoln, all veteran actors and actresses. Ian Enright as a young and innocent Gabriel, Matt Boynton as Sir Gramercy, Mayor of the City of Scarum, Noga Weinstein as Petunia, the proper Bostonian Witch, Sara Stewart as the wide-eyed innocent young thing, Seth Meier as Headless Harry and Mike Poignand as Frank N. Stein, Danielle and Adrienne Marcus as Wilma and Wanda Witch and John Kinsman as the ridiculous villain Count Chive Oregano.

Performances will be held at the Emerson Umbrella Center for the Arts, 40 Stow St. in Concord Center; Friday, October 27 at 7:30 p.m., Saturday, October 28 at 2:30 p.m. and Sunday, October 29 at 2:30 p.m. The production is recommended for audiences three-years-old and up. All tickets are $6, group rates are available on request. Seats are reserved on a first-come basis. For information and ticket reservations call (508) 371-1482.

Woburn native's law practice among top in Boston

Little did they know back in 1956, that their youngest son David would be representing people from all walks of life in the courts of Massachusetts. But for his parents, Thomas and Barbara Williamson, David's long hours and personal sacrifice has prospered into seeing his office develop into one of Boston's most active law firms dealing in the representation of injured people.

Attorney David Williamson was born and raised in Woburn, graduated from high school in 1974. After receiving a bachelor's degree in Criminal Justice and Spanish, he went on to graduate from the Massachusetts State Police Academy, and worked in Amherst until 1981.

Shortly thereafter, Mr. Williamson married and began Suffolk Law School in Boston. He graduated cum laude in 1985 and began the practice of law in an established Boston law firm.

In May of 1986 he opened his own law practice on Beacon Street in Boston and formed a partnership in January of 1989 with Mr. Angel Melendez.

Attorney Melendez a veteran of the U.S. Marine Corp., graduated from Rutgers University and Northeastern School of Law, and therefore has been involved in personal injury litigation since he began the practice of law in Boston in 1985. He is also an active member of the Knights of Columbus and the Big Brother Association.

Recently, the firm has added an associate, Maria Teresa Viejo, a graduate of Suffolk Law School. Ms. Viejo concentrates in worker's compensation law.

Both attorneys point out that a focal point of pride of their practice of law is the personalized contact that they maintain with their clients.

"We both feel that if a person has suffered a personal injury, an attorney should respond immediately to that person's needs, which includes a home visit for the initial meeting" adds Attorney Williamson.

"Communication" states Mr. Melendez, "is the most essential element in a healthy client attorney relationship."

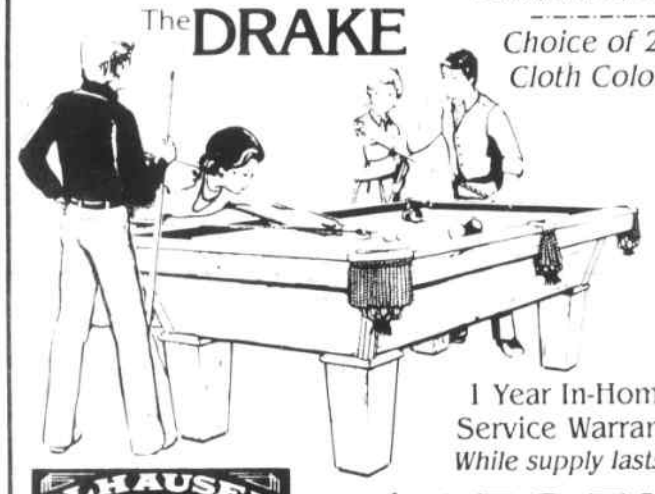

Currently, the firm's main office is located at 6 Beacon Street in Boston. There also are offices in downtown Worcester and Chelsea, Massachusetts.

The firm concentrates in personal injury law which includes people injured at work and those injured in motor vehicle accidents. Services are also provided among associates in the fields of criminal, immigration, social security, wills and real estate law.

MOVIE REVIEWS Rochelle Flynn

"The Fabulous Baker Boys" and Short Takes

"The Fabulous Baker Boys" Starring Jeff Bridges, Michelle Pfeiffer, Beau Bridges. Written and directed by Steve Kloves. Produced by Paula Weinstein, Mark Rosenberg. Rated R.

This is one sexy movie.

Not just in the physical sense, but in every possible meaning of the word. The dialogue, the cast, the plot and even the photography all work to get your juices flowing intellectually as well as erotically. Add to that an underlying, almost bemused sense of humor, matched by a stiff dose of cynicism, and this movie should blow the competition out of the water at Oscar time.

Jeff and Beau Bridges play the Fabulous Baker Boys, a pair of piano players who work the local lounge scene in Seattle. They've been at it for 31 years, putting in their time at cheap Tahitian bars and numerous Starlight lounges. They have the routine down pat, can play "Feelings" without having to think about it. But there is no charm in their act. There may have been once, when they were young and it was still fun. All you have to do is look at them and know those days ended long ago, probably in some tawdry bar off the Interstate.

In an effort to boost business, Frank (Beau Bridges) decides to add a singer to the act. Jack, (Jeff Bridges) who hasn't done much more than just show up for the past few years, doesn't so much agree as glide along with the idea. When they end up with Susie Diamond (Michelle Pfeiffer) a gum-snapping retiree from an escort service, they take on more than a pretty blonde with a sultry voice. Susie forces the pair to take a hard look at their music and their relationship.

One would assume that a movie about a couple of lounge lizards and a crusty singer would be full of cheap shots and slime ball humor. Wrong. These three people are some of the most fully-developed characters to be trotted across a screen in years. Frank, who is worried about losing his hair and keeping up an image, is a nice family man who maintains the business. He may lack imagination, and any real talent, but he does his best and always keeps going. Jack, the one with the real talent, at first comes across as a martyr, a guy who stayed with the act for his brother's sake. By the end of the movie you realize he's actually taken great satisfaction in wallowing and not doing, and that maybe it was nerdy Frank who kept him going, not the other way around.

The story starts out with some very funny scenes of the Bakers auditioning singers. Jennifer Tilly is a standout as a waitress with a Betty Boop voice who does a rendition of "The Candy Man" that was perhaps choreographed on Venus. Susie shows up 90 minutes late, makes fun of them and demands a try-out anyway.

The Baker's relationship with Susie can at first be defined by what she calls them: Egghead and Baker. Egghead is Frank, the one who teaches her how to dress and what to say. Baker is the cool younger brother who stands back, smoking and occasionally making caustic, oh so cool remarks. But it's Baker she goes for.

Writer/director Steve Kloves keeps the humor and the heat turned up at first. Not only do we get to know these people, but we get to like them, warts and all. The sparks practically fly between Susie and little brother Jack, and Kloves adds to the eroticism by allowing his camera to caress Pfeiffer as she sings. Her rendition of "Makin' Whoopee," lying on a piano and wrapped in a snug red dress, leads up to one of the sexiest scenes in cinema. Jack massages her neck and back in an empty ballroom, surrounded by the sad remains of a New Year's Eve Party, with only the camera tracking his moves. Yet as hot as this scene is, Kloves takes his lessons from films of the Thirties and Forties - we never see any more flesh than the curve of a back.

As the characters begin to reshape their roles, the humor gives way to sharp conversation just shy of shocking, so stinging you may catch yourself gasping. Kloves has a superb ear for a dialogue honed by knowledge. These people can go for the jugular because they really love one another. Their barbs are all the more dangerous for having been dipped in honesty.

Of course, as delectable as Kloves' script is, he would never have pulled it off without these particular actors. Beau adds depth to his stiff, business-minded manager/performer, making him sympathetic and likable. Jeff, on the other hand, makes sure we know that his character's wariness and inability to connect has made him a screwball in his own right. He's not just a cute, artsy type, but an embittered man with no one to blame but himself. Pfeiffer adds integrity and grit to a role that could have merely sizzled. And yes, those are her own throaty vocals, no one dubbed her singing.

The movie ends on a decidedly hopeful note, but not an unimaginable one. You can see how these people have grown, and where their relationships may take them, but all within the framework of reality. Definitely a film to applaud.

Short Takes

A Dry White Season tells the ugly tale of apartheid through the eyes of Donald Sutherland, a school teacher who slowly awakens from his social coma to try and combat the injustice around him. Marlon Brando as a cynical barrister and South African actor Zakes Mokae enhance this story, but one can't help but feel that it's time for an anti-apartheid movie told through a black perspective. Rated R. ***

Crafts Show at Austin Prep

The Friends of Austin Preparatory School in Reading will hold their twelfth annual "Olde New England Village Crafts Show" at the school on Saturday, October 21, from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Austin Prep is located at 101 Willow St., Reading.

The show will feature the work of 70 New England professional crafters. Many will demonstrate their specialties, and all will have items for sale. HONS' Fair From S-5 dies which Rita Stone has so well "stirred up" in past years.

Christmas Shoppe - Strictly Christmas Shoppe by Helen Simpkins at her gaily decorated booth.

Pre-School - Pre-School up to Size 6x with Laura Wright in charge will again offer many items for the youngsters.

Country Store - Jams, jellies, pickles, preserves, cheese and the famous zucchini relish will be available at the Country Store with Ruth Mathews and Bertha Milley maintaining the store.

Clown Dolls - Clowns, clowns, clowns, what can we say about the clown dolls made by our girls at the workshops every week with Marge Guarino as "Boss Clown." These dolls have been requested by many, many parts of the country - they have become so famous! Anyway, they will be on sale at the Clown Doll table.

Bake Shoppe - All sorts of home baked goodies will be available to tempt you at the Bake Shoppe with Barbara Green and Charlene Perella in charge.

Odds & Ends - The Odds & Ends booth, with Louise Brown and Yvonne Worth, will have a lot of interesting items for your pleasure.

Knit Table - Our Knit Table will offer all manner of handmade items - scarves, mittens, sweaters, stoles, etc., all beautifully handcrafted by Kay Smiledge and many members and friends.

Cupcakes 'n Cookies

Strictly for the "kids" will be the cupcake and cookie decorating table. Here's a chance for the youngsters to show what they think a fancy cookie or cupcake should look like. Handling the frostings and cakes will be Louise Chase

Chicken Dinner - Line up early for the chicken dinner which will be prepared and served by Jane Saulnier with the assistance of Aleppo Stewards and with the Cape Hons supervising the dining room. Don't let it be said that you were left out on this delicious dinner. It's all prepared and cooked at the Mosque. Come early as it was sold out last year.

Save the date! Mark your calendars and don't miss it! See you at the HONS' Fair!

The general committee has been Marge Guarino, Gwen Cram, Jeanne Zeller, Marge Bellois with Ruth Finnemore as chairman.
